Simon lays low

By Cabell Bruce

P-10 Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. Paul Simon will announce at a press conference today that he is suspending his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, sources close to the Illinois Democrat said.

Simon will place his candidacy on an inactive status, instead of withdrawing, so that he can attend the Democratic convention this summer with the delegates who are pledged to him, said Illinois congressional and campaign sources.

Simon officially claims only 155 delegates pledged to him, though other estimates of his total range from 171 to 209. More than 2,000 delegates' votes are required to earn the nomination.

"He wants to go to the convention to fight for his position on economic development, jobs and long-term care for the elderly in the party platform," Illinois State Sen. Vincent DeMuzio, the state Democratic chairman, said in a telephone interview.

Furthermore, the first-term U.S. senator does not want to withdraw from the race because he will gain an additional 47 out of 60 at-large delegates from Illinois. They will be chosen on May 7 when the state Democratic Party meets, DeMuzio said.

"Simon has to somehow keep his candidacy alive legally so that he can name some of the at-large delegates," said John Jackson, a political scientist at Southern Illinois University.

Jackson said many influential people from Illinois who have supported Simon's candidacy would be upset if the senator withdrew, because he then would not be able to name them as at-large delegates as he has promised to do.

"If you blow away the 'heavy hitters' in the state who have been promised to be named delegates, you're going to end up

Sick boy's mother praises volunteers

GRANITE CITY — A benefit dance for a sick Granite City boy raised more than $4,000 last weekend.

The proceeds will help defray the expense of two operations Shaun Rhoadbeck, 6, needs to remove his non-functioning large intestine. Previous operations to ease the boy's problem have proven costly to his parents, Dennis and Cindy Rhoadbeck.

More than 400 people attended the benefit, which was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Old Alton Road; 25 volunteers helped with the affair, and area businesses donated food, refreshments and prizes.

The benefit was organized by Chris Sticker, a co-worker of Cindy Rhoadbeck's at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, and Greg Nighossian, a paramedic and firefighter.

Cindy Rhoadbeck praised Sticker, Nighossian and others who helped. "There just aren't any words to express our gratitude," Rhoadbeck said.

Police commissioners plan to resign April 15

GRANITE CITY — Resignations are expected from two members of the three-member Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. Bruce Groshong, 52, said Wednesday he will resign April 15. He said Linda Irwin also planned to resign. She could not be reached for confirmation.

Simon Groshong and Irwin were appointed in April 1987, the commission started a program of police testing in cooperation with Belleville Area College, and tentatively the same for firemen; published commission rules and policies that are available at the city clerk's office; and conducted open meetings.

Joe Williams, the commission's third member, said he was unaware of the resignations.

In April 1987, Mayor Von Dee Cruse wanted Williams to resign for not being "a team player." Williams did not resign, and Wednesday said his term would last as long as Cruse's mayoral term, which ends in 1989. Cruse could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Council ignores engineer, will maintain intersection

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Over objections from the city engineer, the City Council voted 10-2 to make an altered intersection of State Street and Fehling Road permanent.

City Engineer Roger Hadley filed a written objection with the council when the change was proposed last year and has since refused to support alterations made, at the council's request, by the City Street Department.

"I refuse to design an unsafe intersection," Hadley said at the March 22 council meeting. "I will not have anything to do with the design as it is."

At the March 22 meeting, 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak made a motion to appropriate money for landscaping the traffic island that is the main feature of the design. The island consists of concrete barriers surrounding a sand pile.

As a point of order, Mayor Von Dee Cruse told the council that, since it was a temporary intersection, spending money would not be wise.

"You can vote to do anything you want," Cruse said. "That's your right. But I think you need to solve the intersection problem first."

Truck docks prompt neighbor's complaint

MADISON — Trucks connected with the Tardis Food Co., at Alton Avenue and 12th and Greenwood streets, drew a complaint at the City Council meeting Tuesday from Evelyn Holt, 1025 Alton Ave.

Holt said the trucks sometimes cross her lawn while backing up to a location on the Alton Avenue side of the company building. She also alleged trucks parked at the company's 12th Street dock sometimes protrude into the street, obstructing the sidewalk.

Holt said trucks parked on

By the wrecking of the old church and school building on the grounds adjoining the Emerson School on B Street, Madison County is losing one of its oldest landmarks. Built in 1887, Kinder School was recently sold by the William F. Niedringhaus estate to Luster & Sons, Granite City, which began wrecking the building for materials.

Parents of boys with AIDS talk about school problems

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Arguments from school districts wanting to ban students with the AIDS virus are similar, and have failed, according to two parents of AIDS victims and their legal cases.

Charges of hygienic, behavioral and academic failings are among considerations school districts try to get courts to accept as a basis for segregating children with AIDS, according to conversations Wednesday with a Belleville woman and a Pennsylvania man.

"They'll grasp at anything," said Bill Stenger, 28, Kunkletown, Pa. Stenger is an AIDS victim and the father of an AIDS victim, Craig, 7.

Stenger and a Belleville woman who calls herself Jane Doe each faced opposition from determined school district officials who did not want AIDS-infected children. The American Civil Liberties Union's support for the Belleville boy got him back into a classroom, and in Pennsylvania the secretary of education ordered Craig's return to school.

Stenger and Doe know Tammy Robertson, 28, Granite City, and said the District 9 Board of Education should not be allowed to keep her 7-year-old son, Jason, out of school. Jason has AIDS-related complex and at Robertson's request the ACLU announced the intent to file a suit against the district to reinstate him.

Robertson, Doe and Stenger share similar experiences. Doe's 6-year-old son is a hemophiliac and, like Jason, "John Doe" is believed to have contracted the AIDS virus through blood products prior to passage of a law that requires the products to be screened. Stenger said his son received the virus as a result of a transfusion following a traffic accident in 1984.

Each of the three children attended school with the virus before being removed, and legal fighting resulted in each case when the parents demanded a normal education for their children.

Stenger said that some people opposed to a normal education got up on their soapboxes in Kunkletown, a village of less than 1,000 set among Pennsylvania's hills and decimated by Stenger as "a town that time forgot — kind of backwoods." He said he loves the GRANITE CITY — Keeping children with AIDS out of school is a loser for school districts.

In 1987, the list of losing school districts included Doe v. Belleville Public School District 18, Ray v. School District of DeSoto County, Fla., and Thomas v. Atascadero Unified School District in California.

The District 9 Board of Education is being threatened with a lawsuit by the American Civil Liberties Union because the board is allowing a student with AIDS-related complex, Jason Robertson, 7, to be educated in a building segregated from other pupils.

Though similar to other cases, District 9's defense for its approach to Jason's education is different and legal, Steve Balen, director of special education, said Wednesday.

Jason is not being kept out of school because he has the AIDS virus, Balen said. He said Jason is classified as a special education student under the Handicapped Children's Act.

"With Jason and hemophilia, he does have special education needs," Balen said. Under the act, public schools can establish an education program for individual pupils if they have disabling conditions. Jason has hemophilia, which qualifies as a disabling condition because it caused the boy to miss school and resulted in academic problems.

As described previously by Jason's mother, Tammy Robertson, the boy's hemophilia sometimes causes him to have internal bleeding spells at the ankles. The spells make walking dangerous for him.

Balen said a court could order Jason back to school immediately, but it would not be good for the boy. Balen said that during the past several months Jason has made social and academic gains in the separate school building and the best means of helping Jason would be a gradual transfer into a normal classroom.

Balen said it would be in Jason's best interest if the ACLU would discuss a gradual transition to a regular school, but the ACLU is not responsive. "They won't really talk to us," Balen said. "All they've done is say they're going to sue us."

The ACLU, called several times this week by the newspaper, could not be reached again Wednesday.

Under direction from Tammy Robertson, Jason's mother, Tammy Robertson, cannot comment.

town, but people were afraid of AIDS and wanted to protect their children.

"It can get ugly when people think their children are threatened," Stenger said.

In Stenger's case, the superintendent of schools was responsible for deciding to keep Craig out of school. "He would have fought, but before that happened the state's secretary of education stepped in and ordered Craig's reinstatement."

"It did save taxpayers some money. ... I didn't want to overburden an already bad tax situation," Stenger said.

In Belleville, School District 118's decision to keep John out of school resulted in the ACLU filing suit on his behalf. The arguments against having the boy in school, his mother said, included that the 6-year-old did not always finish the toilet or wash his hands, that he might pick a scab on his arm or pick his nose, and they questioned his mental ability.

"They had a whole list of

Week to laud work for hospital helpers

They number more than 200, all told, and on any given day there may be as many as 30 working in St. Elizabeth Medical Center. They serve in almost every department. They are the adult volunteers.

"Throughout the year, I hear so many favorable comments from supervisors and associates about the volunteers' performances," said Joyce Epperson, SEMC volunteer director.

"Because of their outstanding efforts, many of our volunteers have been nominated for 'Above and Beyond' awards, which recognizes contributions made to SEMC, its patients or staff."

"On behalf of all the departments, I thank each volunteer for his or her commitment and dedicated hours of service to SEMC. The volunteers' service is very much appreciated."

In recognition of the role volunteers play, April 17-24 has been declared National Volunteer Appreciation Week. This year's theme is, "Volunteers give from the heart."

On Friday, April 22, SEMC and Hospice volunteers will be honored at the volunteer appreciation dinner, in the Kettler Center gymnasium.

"The past year was one of which the volunteers of St. Elizabeth can be proud," Epperson said. "We expanded our program to include 23 new volunteers, raising our adult volunteers to 214. These volunteers, who assist associates in over 40 departments, produced 62,832 hours in 1987, which was 14,000 more hours than in 1986."

"They not only assist various departments, but also donate money to the hospital with funds raised through the volunteer/Auxiliary-operated TV, rental service, coffee shop and gift shop."

The Auxiliary volunteers handle over $500,000 a year, donating all profits to SEMC. This year, the Auxiliary donated $150,000 to purchase a CAT scanner for radiology, $5,000 for a satellite dish used for in-house educational programs and teleconferences, $10,000 in scholarships to individuals pursuing a medical career, and $1,000 to Lifeline, a national citizens people who could not pay for the contact service.

Epperson said a new volunteer service, the Medicare Assistance Program, will be starting at SEMC in the near future. Qualified volunteers will provide free assistance to senior citizens needing help with Medicare forms.

Annual park egg hunt draws 280

About 280 children participated in an Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by McDonald's Restaurants of Granite City and the Granite City Park District.

The event was held for children in pre-school, kindergarten and first grade April 2 at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Three golden eggs and three silver eggs were hidden for each age group. Children who found the eggs were awarded prizes. Prize winners were:

First Grade - Steven Kirkpatrick, 6; Michael Weiss, 6; Craig Moshagen, 6; Jeff Reynolds, 7; and Laura Kamadulski, 6;

Kindergarten - Travis Matthews, 6; Katie Brock, 6; Jarod McMillan, 6; Jeanna Janek, 6; and Shelly Pulaski, 5.

Pre-School - Katie McFain, 4; Christina Hocking, 4; Jayme Hillmer, 2; Lauren Puscsek, 5; and Greg Buiva, 4.

Drainage problem hearing slated for April 11 at SCC

The next hearing of the State and Local Government Advisory Committee on Drainage Problems in the American Bottoms Area will be at 3 p.m. Monday, April 11, in the State Community College Board Room, 601 Thompson Drive, according to State Rep. Wyvett Young, D-East St. Louis.

"Congress is considering legislation that could reduce the revenue burden on local taxpayers by approximately $17.25 million to repair the (Metro East) Sanitary District's levees and pump station," Young said.

The hearing committee will review the proposed legislation and receive testimony on five questions:

- What changes are needed in the board and administration of the Sanitary District;
- What changes are needed in the district's boundaries;
- Is there adequate protection for another flood;
- What assistance should be available to the victims of the flood of 1986; and
- How to raise the local share of revenue necessary to fund the project.

It is estimated that about $23 million will be needed to make necessary repairs to protect the health, safety and welfare of the people of the Southwestern region of Illinois.

Federal cost sharing requirements mandate that 25 percent of construction costs be borne locally, bringing local costs to about $5.75 million.

Help offered to expectant moms

The Obstetrics Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., is offering classes in early pregnancy and Lamaze.

All OB classes are provided as a community service and meet in the prenatal classroom, on the second floor of the McKinley School Building, 22nd and Iowa streets, across from the medical center.

The early pregnancy classes, designed for women less than six months pregnant, provide information on nutrition, exercise, breast conditioning, how a woman's body changes during pregnancy and how the fetus develops. Classes include April 11 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The Lamaze classes introduce expecting fathers and mothers during the last three months of pregnancy to the Lamaze method of birthing.

A six-week series of classes includes relaxation and breathing techniques, discussion of labor and delivery, medications, Cesarean sections, an introduction to parenting and breastfeeding, and a tour of the OB Department. Pre-registration is required.

Tuesday sessions will begin on April 12 and will meet from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday sessions will begin on April 13 with two different classes, which meet from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. or 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

For those mothers who have attended a prenatal class series with their previous pregnancy and feel a need to refresh their knowledge for their current pregnancy, a Lamaze refresher course option is available.

The expecting mother and coach are to attend the first of the prenatal classes. At that time, the prenatal instructors and the mother will decide on what classes of the regular series to attend.

Individuals interested in attending should call 798-3040.

Cable TV hearing scheduled this month
GRANITE CITY — With the defeat of Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen in the March 15 primary, the future of his cable TV task force has been questioned by some. But a public hearing has been scheduled here, possibly April 20.

The Madison County Task Force has been relatively inactive in the past several months, but, according to Allen, information it has gathered will soon determine whether he files charges against Cencom Cable TV.

Pontoon Beach seeks plan for jail building
PONTON BEACH — Securing a working plan for a new jail was authorized at the Village Board's March 22 meeting.

Trustee Carl Hackney, former county developer for the village, said a registered architect has agreed to prepare a preliminary plan for study by board members for a fee of $250.

Haine blasts agency on light rail funding
PONTON BEACH — Madison County Transit District Chairman William Haine blasted the Bi-State Development Agency, and specifically its executive director, for attempting to balance its budget at the expense of the two Metro East transit districts.

At Haine's request the board approved a scathing letter from Haine to Bi-State Executive Director Raleigh D'Adamo.

Granite City (Ill.) Press-Record, Thursday, April 7, 1988 — 3A

Four warrants served

Steven P. Waltemate, 26, 3912 Oakmont Drive, Pontoon Beach, was transferred April 1 from the Pontoon Beach Police Station to Granite City and was served with four warrants.

The warrants alleged failure to appear on a Granite City charge of driving while his license was suspended and failure to appear on a Madison charge of disorderly conduct.

The other two warrants were St. Clair County charges of driving while his license was suspended and driving without a valid driver license.

Woman struck in face

Randy Earl Ifland, 27, 2904 Dale Ave., was arrested April 3 and charged with criminal trespass to property and battery after he allegedly struck Trisha Robertson, 3307 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Robertson, who had blood on her face, alleged being punched by Ifland. He also broke a rear window in her apartment, she alleged. Ifland was released after posting $105 bail.

Sheepdog shot in leg

James Dale Wells, 2919 Denver Ave., reported finding his Old English Sheepdog bleeding from a front leg April 1. The dog was in a fenced rear yard.

Wells took the 3-year-old animal to a veterinarian, who reported the dog had been shot through the leg by a .22 caliber bullet. Police are continuing to investigate the incident.

Speeding, fleeing charges

James T. Pickett, 20, 2305 Dwight Drive, was charged with speeding and with fleeing and attempting to elude police when arrested April 1 in the 2700 block of Grand Avenue.

Police said that, after Pickett's auto was clocked on radar in the 2700 block of Madison Avenue, the driver turned west on 27th Street and north on Grand Avenue while being followed by a squad car with its flashing lights activated.

Pickett was found seated in his car, which was parked in a driveway in the 2700 block of Grand Avenue. He posted $102 cash bail and was released.

Tickets issued

PARKED VEHICLES STRUCK: This Granite City Street Department Ford Ranchero and a pickup truck owned by Mark Siebert of Granite City, both parked in the 2600 block of Grand Avenue, were struck by the car of Vernon J. Thomas III, 2636 Dogwood Drive. The incident occurred at 3:10 a.m. April 4. Thomas was ticketed for leaving the scene of an accident involving vehicle damage and for driving too fast for conditions.

Traffic warrant served

Larry Dean Turner, 32, 2157 Monroe Ave., was arrested April 1 in the 2000 block of Washington Avenue on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his license was suspended.

Disturbance ends in filing of two charges

Charles Watson Kelly, 24, 2330 E. 24th St., was arrested at home at 3:15 a.m. April 2 and booked for battery and criminal damage to property, following a disturbance. Kelly's stepfather, Peter Muñoz, 53, of the same address alleged Kelly struck him in the face with his fist, broke a glass pane in a door, and threw furniture around, damaging a chair and a telephone, which was ripped from the wall.

Threat at store alleged Pennie Lee Poe, 24, 2321 E. 23rd St., was arrested March 28 at Walgreen's Drug Store, 3301 Nameoki Road, and charged with aggravated assault and disorderly conduct. Poe allegedly threatened an employee with a tire iron. When she allegedly tried to pull the employee across the counter, Sherry Pyles, 29, Afton, Mo., manager, intervened and told Poe to leave. Poe allegedly refused and police were called. Poe was released after posting $155 cash bail.

Arrested on warrant

Robert Allan Elmore, 29, 2615 Grand Ave., was arrested April 1 in the 2800 block of E. 24th Street on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of having an improper auto muffler. He posted $27 bail and was released.

Answering machine gone

Rhonda McGee, 24, 2620 Lincoln Ave., reported March 29 the burglary from her home of a video cassette player valued at $600, an answering machine valued at $130 and 10 cassette tapes.

Contempt warrant served

Brett Eugene Hasden, 23, 2406 W. 23rd St., was arrested April 2 on a contempt warrant alleging a charge of improper passing. He posted $67 bail and was released.

Cannabis charge filed

Mary Kay Rousseau, 41, 2013 Edwardsville Road, was arrested March 29 in her auto at the parking lot of Eddie's Lounge, 2900 Nameoki Road, and charged with unlawful possession of cannabis. She was released after posting $102 cash bail.

$376 bicycle stolen

Charles Van Deusen, 11, 2560 Parkview Drive, Apartment 6, reported March 28 the theft of his GT Performer bicycle, valued at $376, from where it was chained outside Apartment 12.

High-speed chase alleged

Following a chase at speeds reported reaching more than 100 mph, police arrested Jodie Ray White, 27, 3023 Sunbury Ave., March 30 and charged him with 11 traffic violations.

The chase reportedly began on Maryville Road near Illinois 162 and continued to Pontoon Road just west of the railroad tracks. White was charged with four counts of disobeying a stop sign, three counts of disobeying a traffic control device, and one count each of speeding 100 mph in a 30 mph zone, reckless driving, and fleeing and attempting to elude police.

Man robbed in motel

Dorold W. Stephens, 52, Pekin, reported March 29 that two men entered his room at the Illini Motel, 1100 Niedringhaus Ave., and held him at knife point while they took $100 cash and a hand radio from a nightstand in the room. A gold chain, valued at $400, was taken from his neck. The two then tied him up with torn sheets.

Green Chevy Nova taken

Vicky L. Donohue, 23, 2400 Delta Ave., reported the theft March 29 of her green 1974 2-door Chevy Nova from the 3000 block of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Police allege battery

Mark D. Byrd, 1728 Cleveland Blvd., was arrested March 29 and charged with disorderly conduct, battery and resisting a peace officer. It was alleged he kicked and shoved police officers answering a disturbance call at his address. Byrd was transferred to the Madison County Jail and bond was set at $3,000.

Washing machine gone

Armetta Peach, 2105 Missouri Ave., reported April 1 a burglar took a washing machine valued at $100 from the basement.

Family members arrested

David Wayne Gibson, 19, and Steven Paul Gibson, 18, both of 4039 Melrose Ave., were booked for battery and Kenneth Ray Gibson, 41, of the Melrose address, was charged with disorderly conduct at 2 a.m. April 2 in the former Kroger store parking lot in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center. Jeffrey S. Early, 28, 614 Alton Road, alleged David and Steven Gibson drove up in a vehicle, got out and began striking him about the face and body, knocking him to the ground.

Kenneth Gibson was arrested due to his alleged behavior after officers arrived at the scene.

Wallet, $500 missing

Russell Dale Pearman, 2905 Kirkpatrick Homes, U.S. Navy, reported April 2 that he lost a brown wallet containing $500 and a $498 U.S. government payroll check.

Burglar takes chainsaw

A 15-inch television and a chainsaw were taken in a burglary at the home of Steven Weber, 2003 Washington Ave., he reported April 1.

Radio Shack burglarized

A burglar at the Radio Shack, 12 Crossroads Plaza, March 31 took two radio cassette players valued at $160 each, a camcorder valued at $1,300 and a 13-inch color television valued at $300 after breaking out the glass front door and entering. Also reported was damage to another camcorder and a color monitor valued at $300.

Grade school entered

Police responded to three alarms at Parkview Elementary School, 3200 Maryville Road, March 30 and, after the third alarm, found the school had been entered by breaking a window in the gym and another in the kitchen area. Another window in the front of the building was also broken.

Boat propeller stolen

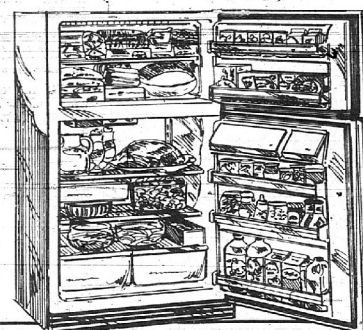

John Perkins, 58, 3024 Mockingbird Lane, reported the theft March 30 of a stainless steel boat motor propeller from a boat parked in front of his home. He valued the propeller at $479.

Pellet wounds youth near ear

Anthony Conners, 16, of the 2200 block of Charles Street, was to undergo surgery Saturday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center to remove a pellet which lodged just below his left ear.

Conners was standing on a porch talking on the telephone outside the home of Craig Dodson, 1005 Kirkpatrick Homes, when he felt pain on the left side of his face, he told police.

Conners was taken by ambulance to the medical center, where X-rays showed the pellet was lodged about three inches below the entrance wound, reports said.

A car occupied by several youths drove past the apartment about the time Conners was injured, police were told.

Power of attorney law reviewed from perspective of health care

EDITOR'S NOTE: The "Power of Attorney Act," recently revised by the Illinois legislature, recognizes that each individual has the right to appoint an agent to deal with property or make personal and health care decisions for him or her. The following is a story that focuses only on the latter.

With recent passage of the new Power of Attorney Act, individuals who entrust an appointed agent to make health care decisions in their stead will now legally be covered should they become disabled, incapacitated, or incompetent.

In the past, power of attorney was limited to the physical and mental well-being of the individual and did not always last a lifetime.

"It used to be a real problem," said Sister Mary Thomas, St. Elizabeth Medical Center chairman of the board.

The individual would have to hire a lawyer to obtain legal guardianship when power of attorney was lost. This proved to be not only inconvenient but costly, according to Ralph Hausmann, SEMC social work director.

"Now the individual has the opportunity to choose who he or she wants," she said. "Plus, it saves them money. It's really an improvement."

New legislation allows the designated agent, or attorney, the power to make health care decisions for the individual up to and after death, including permission for anatomical gifts, autopsy or disposition of remains. The decision of when such power begins and ends and the specific details included are left solely to the individual, who can amend or revoke the power of attorney at any time.

According to the state, the individual has "the right to control all aspects of his or her personal care and medical treatment, or to direct that it be withdrawn, even if death ensues."

"The individual's power overrides the choice of attending physician or other health care provider."

The individual may transfer his or her power to a designated agent with the assurance that third parties will honor the agent's authority.

Persons interested in obtaining power of attorney may contact Granite City attorney Eric Robertson.

"You want two things to be accomplished. First, you want to make sure it's properly prepared, and second, you want to be sure there's a clear understanding between both parties."

DUIs

Arrest follows accident

Aaron Wayne, Colp, 17, 3220 Wayne Ave., was arrested at 2:29 a.m. April 3 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol after his auto allegedly struck a parked car at 1725 Venice Ave. Colp was also charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Woman charged with DUI

Cheryl L. Williams, 29, 2104 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested at 8:35 p.m. April 3 at Nameoki Road and, Wilson Avenue and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving while her license was suspended.

Man unconscious in car, booked on three charges

Michael W. Rodgers, 30, Granite City, was arrested April 3 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, illegal transportation of beer and driving while his license was suspended.

Police alleged finding Rodgers unconscious and slumped over the steering wheel with his car stopped at a green light.

DUI

Richard J. Wilson, 38, of 1800 rear Sikeen St., Madison, was stopped by police March 17 while allegedly driving erratically in the 800 block of Greenwood Street, Madison. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and illegal transportation of alcohol.

Granite City police

Aggravated assault by man on Easter alleged Arthur J. Feis, 29, 4806 Kathy Drive, Apt. 1, was arrested April 3 and charged with aggravated assault after he allegedly approached Deborah Sweeney, 26, of the 2500 block of Iowa Street, in the Knights of Columbus Lounge, said he had a gun, and ordered her to take him home.

He then allegedly had her drive him around in circles before finally getting out of the auto. While in the car, he allegedly made death threats toward Kevin Mikuliza, 23, of the 2200 block of Elm Avenue, a passenger in the car. The alleged threats against Mikuliza resulted in an assault charge.

Burglar nets wallet, purse
Sherri L. Crider, 24, 1812A State St., reported April 2 that a burglar entered her kitchen and took her wallet containing $92 and $20 in food stamps and a neighbor's purse containing $100.

Camera taken from car
David K. Lilly, 36, Fairmont City, reported March 31 the burglary from his car, parked at Tony's Restaurant, of a 35 mm camera valued at $300 and a radar detector valued at $350.

Lawn furniture stolen
Pat Steward, 26, 3501 Franklin Ave., reported the theft from her yard March 31 of four wrought iron chairs, a wrought-iron table, four yellow cushions and an umbrella. She listed the total value as $450.

Man charged with failing to pay tax on cannabis

Alton Jerome Moore, 24, 2148 Adams St., was arrested March 30 at the Illinois Motel parking lot and booked for unlawful possession of cannabis and failure to pay cannabis tax.

Police alleged finding a scale and 43 grams of cannabis in his car. Officers approached Moore after seeing him in the auto.

Cannabis possession by man alleged near tavern

Richard Alan Dittich, 40, 2536 Washington Ave., was arrested March 28 and charged with unlawful possession of cannabis.

Dittich reportedly was standing outside the Wayside Tavern, 2160 Washington Ave., with two other men when police approached and saw him drop a bag and also a package of cigarette papers. He also was booked on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was released after posting $354 cash bail.

Robbers take wallets, cut man's neck with knife
Walters Donald Phipps, Cahokia, and Curt Bosworth, 1656 Fourth St., Madison, reported that two men took their wallets at knife point March 28 while they were standing next to their cars on 20th Street near Cleveland Boulevard.

Bosworth was wounded after struggling with an assailant and was treated at St. Elizabeth medical Center for three puncture wounds to the neck.

K of C hall burglarized, intruder loots machines

A burglar took an unknown amount of money in a burglary of the Knights of Columbus Hall, 4225 Old Alton Road, March 28. The burglar apparently entered through a self-locking door that had been blocked open with a rock before the hall closed.

The burglar allegedly cut telephone lines outside the hall and disconnected an alarm speaker while inside. Eight video cameras, a juke box, a cigarette machine and a cash register were opened and the contents removed.

Parked pickup looted

An air stapler valued at $300, a 100-foot air line worth $100 and a jacket valued at $75 were stolen from the pickup truck of Pat Harper, 2468 Kilarney, while the vehicle was parked at 18th and State streets April 2. The thief forced a sliding rear window to get inside the truck.

Property damage arrest

Steven G. Fresley, 31, 400 Bruden Ave., was arrested April 2 by Wood River police on a Granite City warrant alleging failure to appear on a criminal damage to property charge. He posted $200 bail and was released.

Music equipment gone

A burglar forced open and damaged a rear basement door at the home of Edward Lance, 2217 Monroe Ave., and stole an electric guitar valued at $450, four effect pedals worth $150, analog delay equipment valued at $199, an amplifier worth $400, a microphone valued at $140 and amplifier cables worth $40.

Constitution hearing set

The Committee of 50 to Re-examine the Illinois Constitution, chaired by Lt. Gov. George H. Ryan, has set the date for two regional hearings on whether an Illinois constitutional convention should be called.

At a committee meeting held in Chicago, the following dates and sites were determined:

• CARBONDALE — Thursday, May 5, 7-10 p.m., Southern Illinois University, Student Center, Madison Drive.

• SPRINGFIELD — Thursday, May 19, 7-10 p.m., Stratford Office Building, 3rd Floor Board Room, Capital Development Board, Monroe and College streets.

Article XIV of the Illinois Constitution specifies that the question of whether a constitutional convention should be called must be placed before the voters every 20 years, unless the General Assembly calls for a vote in the interim period.

In an opinion issued by the Illinois attorney general, the first 20-year period ended in 1988 and the question must be put before the voters in the November general election.

The existing Illinois Constitution was crafted during the state's sixth constitutional convention and ratified by the people on Dec. 15, 1970. That convention was proposed by the 1967 General Assembly and approved by voters on Nov. 5, 1968.

Correction

The Press-Record mistakenly reported Betty Kurtz, 801 Lee Ave., Madison, was the driver who had left her car with its engine running March 26 when it backed by itself out of the parking lot of the 24-Hour Total Teller of Central Bank on Madison Avenue, Madison. In fact, Madison police report, the driver was a man named Cammick, first name possibly Walter. The runaway car, which struck another vehicle, was Kurtz's.

Venice driver arrested
Thomas Crowder, 36, of 641 Salvester St., Venice, was arrested in the Grenzer Homes housing project at 11:44 p.m. April 2 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Driving offense charged
John Nishek, 40, of Center Street, Granite City, was arrested in the 1400 block of Sixth Street at 4:35 a.m. April 2 and charged with driving while his license was revoked.

Parked vehicles looted
Gary Marsala, 1611 Fifth St., told police that his car was burglarized while parked in front of his house April 2. Taken were socket wrenches and $2 in change.

Ralph Thomas, 2020 Edwardsville Road, reported an attempted burglary of a car parked in front of

Burglar loots 10 parked vehicles

MADISON — Somebody went into the wholesale burglary business during the early morning hours March 31, breaking into 10 cars parked within a few blocks of each other in the City of Madison and in East Madison. The crime spree took place on McCasland, Beckwith, Harris and Milan avenues and Fifth, Sixth, Sken and Rhodes streets.

Due to the crimes' proximity to each other, Madison police suspect the same person or persons were responsible for all of them.

Victims were:

Beverly Davis, 2023 McCasland Ave., billiards cue, value uncertain, taken from her auto.

Danny Guentzel, 2038 Harris Ave., stereo equalizer, value uncertain.

Bettina Brown, 2028 Milan Ave., apparently nothing missing from her parked car.

Dispositions

Prison for home burglary
Richard E. Howland, 2003 Center St., was sentenced March 25 on a residential burglary charge.

Howland was sentenced by Madison County Associate Judge Edward C. Ferguson to serve four years in prison.

The charges were filed March 14 after an investigation by Granite City Police.

Lawsuit by hearing-disabled employees of railroad settled

The largest mass concurrent railroad employee lawsuit in American legal history has been settled in Belleville with a multi-million-dollar out-of-court agreement.

More than 360 victims of noise-induced hearing disability were compensated for their years of pain and exposure.

In addition to inner-ear nerve damage leading to profound and irreversible hearing loss, many of the employees suffered from other diseases such as high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis and heart disease, it was contended.

The suits, filed in the U.S. District Court in Alton, alleged that the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad knew more than 20 years ago that the noise level in shops where these men worked was causing permanent damage to their hearing.

"Employees were being exposed to deafening noise created by rivet guns," said Rick Rosen, Belleville, one of the attorneys representing the plaintiffs.

All but a few of the participants worked in railroad car shops located in Centralia, Ill., and Paducah, Ky., where they built new railroad cars and repaired old ones.

Sentenced for arson
Shannon T. Biggs, 1736 Cleveland Blvd., Apt. A, was sentenced March 30 on an arson charge.

He was sentenced by Madison County Circuit Judge Philip Rarick to three and a half years in prison.

The charge was filed Feb. 17 following an investigation by Granite City Police.

Venice police

Three-vehicle mishap on McKinley Bridge

Phyllis Gresham, 34, 302 S. 6th St., Brooklyn, sustained a minor injury in a March 30 accident on the McKinley Bridge involving three westbound vehicles.

Rita F. Long, 24, 1321 Rhodes St., said she was driving in the bridge's outside lane when Gresham's car stopped suddenly in front of her car, causing her vehicle to slide sideways.

Jimmy D. Jackson, 27, 2502 E. 23rd St., who was driving behind the two cars, reported applying the brakes on his pickup truck and sliding into the two cars.

Man taken to hospital

Willie R. Meaders, East St. Louis, who was riding in a vehicle which stopped at Klein Street and Broadway March 27, told an officer he had been in a confrontation with the manager of a Brooklyn lounge and was struck on the head.

Meaders was bleeding from the right ear. He asked to be taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was taken there by police.

Real estate here to be reassessed

The year of 1988 will be the quadrennial reassessment year for Chouteau, Granite City, Nameoki and Venice townships, as mandated by the Illinois State Statutes, Public Act 85-795.

Income and expense statements will be requested from all income-producing properties, Robert A. Harris, Madison County supervisor of assessments, said Thursday.

Harris, a Granite City, has offices at 116 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Debra Ming is his chief deputy and C. Allen Martin is director of maps and plats.

Stops robber but gets shot in hand

VENICE — Steve Russell, 219 Hampden Ave., was wounded in the left hand during an attempted robbery March 27.

Russell, who was taken by friends to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, told police he was walking from Brooklyn to Venice when a man approached him in the 500 block of South 4th Street.

"Stickup. Don't make it a murder," the robber said, pointing a blue steel handgun at Russell.

Russell said he reached out and grabbed the weapon, which discharged, the bullet striking him in the left hand. The robber then fled on foot.

Road, Eagle Park, reported March 28 that a burglar entered his car, which was parked in front of New Salem Baptist Church, 1347 Klein St., and stole a wallet, containing $10 and two credit cards, from the glove compartment.

Glove box pried open
A total of $225 was stolen from the glove compartment of a car belonging to Steve Moore Jr., Brooklyn, while the car was parked outside the Bissell Street Apartments March 28. The compartment was pried open with a screwdriver.

Residence ransacked
Nothing was immediately determined to be missing at the home of Elnora Gary, 85 Mercedia Ave., when she arrived home March 9 and found the front door had been kicked in and the house ransacked.

Heavy thoughts on big, fat, weighty problem

"Write something funny about fat people," said a colleague of mine recently. We were stopped at a light next to a car in which a rather large woman was scaring down a burger like it was the world's last.

I'm afraid that what passes for humor in the average newsroom would be right at home in the average high school locker room, but the comment lingered around in my mind and got me to thinking.

It got me to thinking that this guy was trying to get me trampled by a mob of enraged endomorphs.

But my personal fate aside, I have to say that I think fat people get a bum rap. I think they're just living in the wrong place at the wrong time. After all, in certain islands of the South Pacific obesity is considered attractive.

It wasn't always a sin to be fat. A person of hefty used to get some respect — "fat cat." Fat people were considered jolly and contented — "fat and sassy." Fat was a symbol of prosperity — "fat of the land."

Nowadays, if you get a nice healthy 15 or 20 pounds over your fighting weight, people start making hog news jokes.

Conversely, skinniness didn't used to be such a great thing. Skinny people were not entirely to be trusted. Von Cassius had a lean and hungry look right before he helped stick it to Julius Caesar. If Cassius had eaten a couple of pork chops now and then, and maybe some mashed potatoes, Caesar might not have got it in the gizzard.

I say fat people should relax and enjoy their manhood. It's no big thing, so to speak, and it has its benefits: On hot summer days, fat people get seats on the bus all to themselves. If they're fat enough, they get those seats in winter, too. And they can make that sound with their hand and an armpit. They have all those cute dimples.

In fact, I think fat people, especially those who stand stoutly against the tide of fitness obsession and refuse to lose weight, are heroes for our time. They are the point men in what I hope will become a revolution against America's obsession with being skinny.

That's why I applauded when I read about what happened last week in Eismann Hall. Truck inspector Melvin Hansen, who had been fired from his job for being overweight, got his job back when the state Personnel Board ruled that the firing was discriminatory because Hansen's weight had no effect on his job performance.

Melvin Hansen weighed 483 pounds when he was fired, which in my book makes him a certifiable "larger than life" hero for our times.

To me, his firing suggests how far down the brimstone path we have gone in our obsession with how we look rather than what we are. It's the triumph of appearance over substance.

I don't know, maybe television and magazines are to blame. Everywhere we look, we are assaulted with images of men and women so shapely and well-groomed that people of normal proportions and grooming seem ugly by comparison.

The signs of our present situation were visible as early as the late '50s-early '60s, when baseball player Joe Pepitone, of the New York Yankees, began having his uniforms tailored skintight. Pepitone said something like, "I don't know why, but somehow it adds 30 points to my batting average, knowin' I look good when I go to the plate."

Yeah, but I doubt it helped him hit famously fat fireballer Mickey Lolich, of the Detroit Tigers. Now there was a man of considerable substance!

Other players followed Pepitone's suit. Soon all the teams were wearing doubleknit uniforms. Now we have Ozzie Smith on the cover of GQ, a men's fashion magazine. Is it coincidence that, according to recent reports, Smith is also the highest paid player in the majors?

And does this mean it's only a matter of time until baseball teams launch a bidding war for the services of fashion designers who think "the high hard one" is some kind of shoulder padding?

I wouldn't be surprised. Meanwhile, on behalf of people of mature shapes everywhere I would like to congratulate Melvin Hansen on getting his job back. Weigh to go, Melvin.

Michigan boy makes wish to see Bearfoot

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTOON BEACH — Steven Shell could have spent a week in Disneyland, but he wants to come to Pontoon Beach to see the bears and Bearfoot.

The Michigan Chapter of "Make a Wish," a group which grants the wishes of seriously ill youngsters, is going to make the wish of Steven Shell come true. The 10-year-old boy is coming to Pontoon Beach on Sunday to see Bearfoot.

Bearfoot, which has appeared in the television series, "Night Rider," and in a Chuck Norris movie, is a huge 4-by-4 truck owned by Fred Shafer of Pontoon Beach.

The truck can crush almost everything in its path and Shafer has two of the monsters.

Novotney Chevrolet provided one of the vehicles and General Motors gave him the second truck.

Shafer also has two American black bears, who used to ride in the truck when cubs. He's had the bears for eight years.

"They are a little too big for that now," Shafer said Tuesday. "Spice is 7 feet tall and weighs about 550 pounds. Sugar is smaller. She stands about 5 feet high and weighs between 350 and 400 pounds," he said.

Steven saw photos of Bearfoot and the bears in magazines and sent clippings to the "Make a Wish" Chapter in Traverse City, Mich., describing his wish to see Bearfoot.

Steven has leukemia and is undergoing chemotherapy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Shell of Michigan. His father is an over-the-road truck driver.

"We're going to fix him up with everything," Shafer said.

Steven and his parents will arrive Saturday and will spend the night in the area.

Det. Sgt. Mike Crouch volunteered to pick up Steven and provide a police escort to the village, Shafer said.

"I heard the mayor is going to bring Steven's family in his car," he said.

"We're setting up a car crush for him. He's kind of the lead man and whatever he wants, we're going to try and do it," Shafer said.

"Make a Wish" of Missouri arranged tickets to a St. Louis Cardinals game and Steven will visit the Gateway Arch.

Reynolds is a 1987 graduate of Anna-Jonesboro Community High School. She is employed by Dr. C.O. Loomis, Anna, Ill., as a receptionist.

Stewart is a 1982 graduate of Granite City High School South and is employed by McDonnell Douglas, St. Louis.

The couple is planning an April 30 wedding at Korntal Church in Jonesboro.

Scott Stackle and Laura Arbeiter

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Arbeiter, 405 Stephanie Lane, Manchester, Mo., former Granite City residents, announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Ellen, to Scott G. Stackle, Arnold, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stackle, 630 Dornseiff, Arnold, Mo.

Arbeiter is graduate of Hickory's Secretarial and Accounting School, Clayton, Mo. She is a staff accountant at Finan Publishing Co., Webster Groves, Mo.

Stackle is a Ranken Tech graduate and a supervisor for Overhead Door Co., St. Louis.

An Oct. 8 wedding is planned at St. John United Church of Christ in Manchester.

Other players followed Pepitone's suit. Soon all the teams were wearing doubleknit uniforms. Now we have Ozzie Smith on the cover of GQ, a men's fashion magazine. Is it coincidence that, according to recent reports, Smith is also the highest paid player in the majors?

And does this mean it's only a matter of time until baseball teams launch a bidding war for the services of fashion designers who think "the high hard one" is some kind of shoulder padding?

I wouldn't be surprised. Meanwhile, on behalf of people of mature shapes everywhere I would like to congratulate Melvin Hansen on getting his job back. Weigh to go, Melvin.

Scientific inquiry skills help pursue interests

By Jane Cosby
Staff affiliate

Although we don't want to turn every child into a professional scientist, teaching children skills of scientific inquiry is still a legitimate endeavor. Research, inquiry and experimentation are the ways we satisfy our natural interests and curiosity.

Children begin their lives with an insatiable curiosity. If it is not fed and nurtured, a child's curiosity eventually will wither and die.

Parents can encourage a child's scientific "instincts" very easily. The most important ingredient in this process is the atmosphere created in the home. Be open to questions, especially the kind that are not easily answered. Questions can be divided into two categories: convergent and divergent.

Convergent questions are those that have a specific answer, like "What color is that flower?" or "How many legs does a dog have?" Divergent questions are those that are open-ended, like "How do you think the world was created?" These are the questions true scientists ask themselves, and the questions children ask their parents. "How did the stars get up in the sky?" "Why are plants green?"

When your child presents you with a tough question, show him how to conduct some research on the topic. Use a home encyclopedia if you have one, or visit the library to find books or magazines on the topic.

Conduct the research as superlatively or extensively as your child desires. When he tires, quit. Even if your child's attention span seems extremely short, don't try to push your child beyond that point. His attention span will lengthen as he matures.

If you have any questions or have a specific topic you would like to see covered in this column, please write to: ABCs For Parents, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63111.

Emmanuel Baptist to begin revival

Living Every Day by Bob Thomas, President, Thomas Mortuaries

THE CONSEQUENCES OF BEREAVEMENT

Nothing is more devastating than losing someone close to you, especially a spouse or child.

Each year, in the United States, the death of a spouse results in 800,000 new widows and widowers and despite the advances of modern medicine nearly 400,000 persons under the age of 25 die each year.

The survivors of these deceased undergo what has come to be known as a "Period of Bereavement," following the death. This period was, at one time, thought to be short lived, but recent studies have shown that it can last for years.

Bereavement is defined as "loss through death," however, bereavement may be experienced with other losses, such as a loss through divorce. Each person is different, so each bereaved person has some unique reactions to their loss.

Recent studies have shown that persons who are undergoing a Period of Bereavement are at increased risk of illness and death.

A 1984 study by the National Academy of Sciences showed that all bereaved persons were at an increased risk of illness and death. The study also showed that widows and widowers who lived alone were at an even greater risk of death. Remarriage seems to protect against this risk, and the study seems to indicate that the remarriage provides a support system for the bereaved, which helps protect them.

Other studies have indicated that all bereaved persons who lack a support system are at an increased risk of illness and death. Recognizing this increased danger to those who are in bereavement, we at Thomas Mortuaries have, for the past several years, offered several bereavement programs to help our families through these difficult times.

BOB THOMAS
President

We have a full time Bereavement Grief Counselor on staff who contacts each of our families periodically after the service to offer help and guidance.

We have established the Walk-On Program, a support group that meets once a month and the Walk-On Social, which through group activities and trips helps people return to the mainstream of life. Both Walk-On and Walk-On Social are open to all persons in our community who have suffered a loss. We invite your participation.

In addition, we will soon be publishing a quarterly resource entitled Living Every Day, which will give people inspirational and practical help in returning to the mainstream of life.

Information about any of these programs can be obtained by calling our office at 876-4321.

Spring visitors, travelers abound

Emily Alford, 2152 Orville Ave., last week hosted her daughter, Gale Shaffer, and granddaughter, Pattie, Tinley Park, Ill.

Shaffer, a special education teacher in the Tinley Park School system, and her daughter, a student, were here on Easter school break.

Alford and the Shafers spent a day touring and shopping in St. Charles, Mo., before the Shafers returned home.

Alex Schilling, son of David and Kathy Schilling, 2546 Meadowlark Drive, celebrated his fourth birthday March 6, with a family dinner in the Schillings' home. A dinosaur theme was used. Present were Alex's brothers, Adam and Edward; his sister, Amy; his grandparents, William and Carrie Sue Stacey; great-grandmother Clara Schilling; Jeffrey and Michael Stacey; Eddie Schilling; and Randy Schier.

Carmen Breckner, 533 English Place, has returned home after a two-week visit with her son, Capt. Harvey Breckner, and his family in Knob Noster, Mo. Breckner is stationed at White-man Air Force Base, near Sedalia, Mo.

Breckner and his wife, Debbie, and their sons, Mathew, Thomas and Ryan, were here March 5 to celebrate the 30th wedding anniversary of Debbie Breckner's parents, Thomas and Melba Grady, 2727 Sunset Drive.

Mrs. Breckner accompanied her son and his family back to Sedalia, where they visited members of her late husband, Gary's, family. They visited his brother, Owen Breckner, and his wife, Patsy, in Willard, Mo.; brother, Glen Breckner, and his wife, Jeannene, in Stratford, Mo.; his sister, Velma Reynolds, and her husband, Charles, in Kansas City, Mo.; and relatives in Springfield, Mo.

Clarice Rife, 33 B Wanda Drive, accompanied her sister and brother-in-law, George and Bernice Delashmit, Quincy, Ill., to Piquette, Miss., where they visited their sister, Wanda Parker, and her husband, Ernest. The Parkers are former area residents. The group attended the spring tour of the "Trail of Azaleas," played golf at the Hide-Away Lake Country Club and attended a backyard barbecue.

Tom Scott and his wife, 3113 West Chain of Rocks Road, attended the funeral of his brother, John Scott, in Jennings, Mo., on March 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davis, 551 Chouteau Ave., are home after a weeklong fishing trip to Montauk State Park near Licking, Mo. They took a side trip to Summerville, Mo., to visit her sisters, Opal Terrill and E. Reeves.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Opal) Davis, 4925 Mueller Ave., last week accompanied their daughter and son-in-law, Joe and Alma Dutchik, and son, Davis Ramsey, on a vacation through the South. They stopped in Memphis, Tenn., where they picked up Mrs. Davis' sister, Nevada Neal. They then traveled to Koscusko, Miss., to visit Mrs. Davis' brother, Odie Massey, his wife and her brother, Virgil.

The Dutchiks continued their trip to New Orleans, while the Davis, Neal, Odie and May Massey, and Virgil Massey traveled to Jackson, Miss., to visit with another sister, Clara Jentry, and her husband, Oscar.

On the return trip, the travelers stopped in Sixton, Mo., to have dinner at the famous Lambert's "thrown rolls" restaurant.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 323 participated in a flurry of activities in a celebration of Girl Scout Week.

The girls attended an All-Day Badge Workshop in the home of their leader, Kathy Schilling. They assembled and presented a layette to the first baby girl born at St. Elizabeth Medical Center during Girl Scout Week. They enjoyed a luncheon at school in which all Mitchell Girl Scouts participated. Following lunch, a tree planting ceremony, a flag ceremony and a balloon release were held. The week concluded with a skating party at the Funland-Skating Rink.

Members of Girl Scout Troop 323 are: Cheryl Castle, Mendeny Colbert, Theresa Dames, Jamie Dummitt, Nikki Hamilton, Val Matlock, Amy Schilling and Jill Wozniak. Kristin Hamilton is co-leader of the group.

Cub Pack 22 sees kick boxing presentation

Pack 22, sponsored by Frohardt School PTA, met in the school gym March 17, with Committee Chairman Fred San Soucie presiding.

A demonstration on self protection and kick boxing was presented to the pack by the Mitchell Tae Kwon Do School of Granite City. Instructor Ed Mitchell was assisted by Tony Evanoff, Mike Evanoff, Steve Evanoff and Kerry Woods.

San Soucie announced that April 21 at the Pack meeting there will be a Space Derby held in the gym. The chairman will be Jim Severine.

On April 24, the Lincoln Pilgrimage in Springfield will be held. Contact Chuck Stokes, Den 7, for further details.

A show table was set up for the Cubs and parents to see projects the Dens had made.

The following awards were presented by San Soucie:

To Den 1: Timmy Harris, one gold arrow and four silver arrows.

Skating, Cale Becker, Harris, Bobby Ellis, David Martin and Zack Suhre, Matt Grable.

Softball, Grable, Suhre, Becker, Martin and Harris.

Bicycle, Becker, Harris and Grable.

Archery, Becker, Harris and Suhre.

Basketball, soccer, bowling and marbles, Grable.

Golf, Martin.

To Den 2: Bear Badge, Todd Love.

To Den 4: Bobcat Badge, Randy Wissler

To Den 5: Bear Badges, Chris Langley, Nicholas Severine and Jeff Ragan.

To Den 6: Bear Badge, Josh Hildebrand.

To Den 7: Eric Werner, six belt loops for baseball, basketball, bowling, golf, marbles and physical fitness.

Closing was led by Den 8.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Den 7.

Nameoki club leaves federation

The Nameoki Women's Club met at the Harold E. Brown Recreation Center on March 16. A dessert with an Irish theme was served by Bernadine Cooley, Marion Shelton and Irma Taylor.

Members voted to withdraw from the General Federation of Women's Clubs and from the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, but will still maintain its charitable projects in the local area.

Guests are invited to the April meeting when Katie Ellen will present a program on the making of dolls.

In May, the installation of officers will be held at Charlie's Restaurant. All are invited to a June 11 luncheon to honor women's roles in many fields of endeavor.

A district board meeting of the 22nd District was held at Our Lady of the Snows, Belleville. The spring meeting was held March 22 at Troy.

In attendance were: Dolores Allen, Ethel Beala, Mildred Branding, Mildred Jungels, Dorothy McCauley, Shelton, Blanche Cooley, Mary McCollum, Millie Meek, Marian Mertz, Veda Norton, Elsie Rodell, Ver-na Stuart and Taylor.

Choir performances mark services

The Rev. William Mullis welcomed the congregation to worship at Good Friday services at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

The invocation was given by L.D. Patrick, and Dan Patterson read the responsive reading, "The Interlude, 'What Wondrous Love Is This,' was led by Jack Jenkins. Ann Abbott gave the Old Testament reading, 'The Message, 'Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me?' was given by the Rev. Elwyn Wilkinson. The commitment was presented by Mullins.

David Wilmoth carried the cross. The choir, led by the Rev. Kevin Kerr, sang "I Sing the Mighty Power of God," "Redeeming Love," "He Has Surely Borne Our Sorrow" and "Remember — He Loves You."

The Emmanuel and Pontoon Beach churches held a combined Easter Sunrise Service.

Following the prelude by organist Maxine Green, a choir sang "Come and Worship," and "Praise Him, Hallelujahs." The Rev. William Mullis read the responsive reading.

A hymn "Crown Him with Many Crowns" was followed by testimonies of "What Easter Means to Me." The choir, led by Ralph Craycraft, sang "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today."

The Rev. Kevin Kerr presented a message "He Is Risen! So What?" The service closed with the hymn "Because He Lives." The benediction was given by Clinton Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Cui, Flora, Ill., spent the weekend visiting their daughters, Mrs. Howard (Doris) Lathrop and Mrs. Mervin (Thelma) Lathrop, and their families.

The Lathrops were accompanied by their daughter, Velma Ackers, also of Flora.

For dinner Sunday, the Lathrops hosted Mr. and Mrs. Tom Juehne and Tammy, Troy; Mr. and Mrs. David Lathrop and children; Berta and Ryan, Glen Carbon; Gary and Cindy Borgens and their children, Pam and Matt, St. Peters, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas and children, Evan and Rebecca, Urbana, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Al Stevens and sons, Chris and Adam; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Lathrop and daughter, Katy; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Clemmens; and Mervin Lathrop and son, Kenny.

Preceding dinner, they attended church and an Easter egg hunt for the younger children. On Saturday evening, they attended a birthday celebration in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Lathrop, where they celebrated the birthdays of Scott Clemmens, Steve Lathrop and Twilla Juehne.

The Rev. John Hessel is serving as interim pastor at Calvary Baptist Church. He started his duties Sunday.

Air Force Lt. Brian Pickens, stationed in Guam, spent the Easter holidays with his parents, Bill and Carol Pickens. Kelly

West, Denton, Texas was also a guest. Joining them at a family dinner Saturday were Brian Pickens' grandparents, Clifford and Doris Johnson; his sister, Kelle; and Jim Jougland, Belleville.

Diane Walthe and daughters, Heather and Lydia, West Frankfort, Ill., visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zell on Sunday. Lydia stayed with her grandparents during the Easter holidays.

The cantata, "Behold the Empty Tomb," was presented Sunday evening at Grace Baptist Church by the Adult Choir, led by the Rev. Nick Papichak. The cantata was by John Gombal. The soloist was Alicia Papichak. Jim Luley portrayed the crucified Christ. The opening song was "Behold the Empty Tomb," followed by "Jesus Wept," "Cleanse Me," "I Bring My Questions to You," "Song in the Night" and "I'll Never Forget You."

Avon District 910 extended its condolences to Avon representative Genny Stewart who lost her daughter, Donna Jean Ireland.

Dan and Linda Boswell had as a weekend guest their granddaughter, Jammie, and grandsons, Donnie and Brian, all of El Paso, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Birdsong and children, Skipper and Shawna, have returned from a vacation in Mount Vernon, Ill. where they visited Wilma Birdsong, Birdsong's mother; a sister, Lenetta; and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Birdsong and family.

Beta Sigma Phi ends meeting series

Arlene Haldeman presided at six first quarter meetings of Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The meetings were held in the homes of Pat Tsigalaroff, Lora Lombardi, Juanita Calve, Haldeman, Dolores Byrnes and Alice Konecny.

A donation was approved for the Endowment Fund of the International office. A new degree, the "Master's Degree" for members who have held the Laureate Degree for 10 years, was explained. A letter from Viola Dorrian, district representative, listed paid memberships.

A Valentine's Day party and gift exchange were one of the social activities held during this period. Calve was given a surprise party on her "Leap Year" birthday. In March, members attended a show at the Fox theatre.

Calve, service chairman, reported that a donation had been forwarded to the OATH Organization. Plans for a garage sale, a Ways and Means project, were summarized by Evelyn Tolliver.

In her report on the City Council, Haldeman explained that members of the Collinsville chapters would judge the scrapbooks and program books for the Granite City Council Founder's Day Program.

Officers for 1988-89 were elected at the last meeting in March. Elected were: president, Imogene Forrest; vice president, Calve; recording secretary, Ruth Stoyanoff; treasurer, Tsigalaroff; corresponding secretary, Lombardi; extension officer, Konecny; City Council attorney, Evelyn Tolliver.

Cultural programs and presenters were: "Commonly Mispronounced Words" by Stoyanoff; "Home and Car Repair Terms" by Tolliver; "Libraries" by Tsigalaroff; "Know Your Presidents" by Calve; "Gardening" by Lombardi; and a skit, "Nothing but the Truth," by Haldeman and other members.

Refreshments and a social hour followed each of the business meetings.

For the record

$678 million federal spending in county

By Cabell Bruce
P-R/R Washington bureau

WASHINGTON—Madison County garnered $678 million in federal money spent by the Reagan administration in fiscal year 1987, a just-released Census Bureau study discloses.

St. Clair County took in slightly more than $1 billion.

The largest portion of the federal money for St. Clair ($477 million) consisted of direct payments to individuals. An almost equal amount ($441 million) was spent on defense-related endeavors.

In contrast, Madison County, had only $129 million in outlays for defense programs. But almost $453 million was spent on entitlement programs, including retirement benefits, Social Security and food stamps.

Monroe County received $41 million in fiscal 1987, which ended Sept. 30.

Statewide, the study shows that Illinois ranked near the bottom among the states—45th in the amount of federal money spent in the state on a per capita basis in fiscal 1987.

The Census Bureau said the Reagan administration spent $31 billion in Illinois, amounting to $2,672 per person. The population last year was estimated at slightly more than 11 million.

The $31-billion Washington state to Illinois amounted to 4.7 percent of the federal money allotted to the 50 states. California received the largest portion, 11.9 percent.

Alaska once again ranked first on a per capita basis, receiving $5,351. On average, $3,443 was spent per U.S. citizen, the Census Bureau said.

In Illinois, $4.5 billion was spent on grants to state and local governments; $4 billion on salaries and wages; $17.5 billion in direct payments to individuals; $3 billion on procurement contracts; and almost $2 billion for miscellaneous purposes.

The direct payments in Illinois included Social Security, Medicare, federal retirement, food stamps and disability payments to citizens.

The payments of $17.5 billion widely outdistanced Department of Defense expenditures of $1.7 billion in this state. The latter figure includes salaries, military construction and assorted other programs. The study did not break down spending at individual defense installations.

The federal government spent $48 billion in fiscal 1987, which ran from October 1986 through September 1987. The state-by-state report shows $384 billion went for direct payments to individuals in 1987 and $196 billion for procurement contracts for the Defense Department and other agencies.

Elsewhere, $127 billion was spent on federal employees' salaries and wages; $108 billion in grants to state and local governments; $183 billion for research grants, agriculture subsidies and other purposes.

Excluded from the report was spending for a variety of federal programs: the federal debt, international aid, and expenditures for procurement contracts involved in national security.

Presidential fighter to become inactive with many irritated people—and his political career isn't over yet.

In addition, if Simon were to withdraw, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who is running a close second to front-runner Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, would be left to select the at-large delegates. Professor Jackson said, adding, "There are a lot of people who don't want that to happen."

A Simon campaign aide said the senator must "keep his options open" if he hopes to become a compromise candidate in the event of a brokered convention.

Some of his congressional colleagues, including U.S. Sen. Alan J. Dixon, have urged Simon to keep his candidacy alive despite poor showings in some of the primaries.

"Dixon firmly believes that it will be a brokered convention and anything can happen, including nominating Simon," said Dan Mater, Dixon's deputy press secretary.

"I wouldn't dismiss anything this year," DeMuzio said.

Dixon in recent days has been urging a Simon-Nunn ticket, with Sen. Sam Nunn, a southerner, chosen to run for vice president. Nunn, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, originally was Dixon's choice for president but declined to enter the campaign.

In the Wisconsin primary Tuesday, Simon garnered 5 percent of the votes, finishing fourth behind Dukakis, Rev. Jackson and Sen. Albert Gore.

Dukakis, who garnered 48 percent of the Democratic ballots, is thought to have picked up support from a number of potential Simon voters who now see it as a Dukakis-Jackson contest. Simon spent $150,000 on television commercials in the hope that he could gain an upset victory in Wisconsin.

things first-graders would do," Doe said. "I know presidents who pick their noses. I know doctors who pick their noses. You cannot limit that to first-graders."

District 118 did not stop there, she said.

"They also tried to accuse me of being an unfit mother," she said.

When expert testimony indicated District 118 would lose in court, the board agreed to an out-of-court settlement to allow Craig in school. Doe said the board should have realized from the start it could not win because there was abundant information available about AIDS. She said the board's decision to fight is being paid for by taxpayers.

Though Doe's and Stenger's children are in school, problems remain for them.

Doe and the ACLU continue to negotiate points concerning her child's education. She objects, for example, to having her son constantly monitored because, she said, it makes him stand

"The more they fight this, the more they delay, the more (tax money) people have to pay," she said.

Stenger's child is in school, but with only four other students. Most parents are tutoring their children at home rather than allowing them to attend school with Craig. Despite the boycott, Stenger said the educational setting is better for his son than private tutoring.

"He has 400 percent more company than he did staying at home," Stenger said.

Intersect

City Council plans not meeting approval

Perjak said she had been unaware that the intersection was not permanent and, after she demanded an explanation, Hadley restated his disapproval of the design.

"Until you get the right to vote here, you're opinion doesn't mean anything here," 6th Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker said. "If you lived in the city you might be able to see what is good."

Action was deferred on the intersection until Tuesday's meeting and the city engineer was instructed to reconsider or propose a compromise plan.

Perjak opened Tuesday's discussion on the issue with a motion to make the intersection permanent, using not more than the $10,000 already appropriated for that purpose.

"We all agree works and it works fine," Perjak said.

"Just for the record, the city engineer tells us it is unsafe and that he will not lend his name or risk his good reputation to do this," 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said. "Right, Roger?"

"Right," said Hadley. "Sometimes we must go with what works," said 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish. "It was a whole lot more dangerous before."

"The engineer cannot lend his name because of specifications in the state," 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Miller said. "Obviously he's taking an engineer's point of view. But the state can be wrong. Sometimes we have to believe that we know what's best."

Perjak, Whitaker, Skubish, Miller, 2nd Ward Alderman Paul Schuman, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney, 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey and Ralph Astorion, 6th Ward Alderman Walter Milton and 7th Ward Alderman Emerald Daves voted to approve the motion.

Fisk and 1st Ward Alderman Everett Morlen voted against it. Seventh Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen did not vote and 3rd and 4th Ward Aldermen were not present at the meeting.

Perry

Robert L. Perry, 62, Granite City, died in the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 7:47 p.m. Wednesday, April 6, 1988, following a lengthy illness.

Born Dec. 13, 1925, in Marion, Ill., Mr. Perry resided in St. Louis before moving to Granite City in 1960.

Mr. Perry retired in 1967 from the General Motors plant in St. Louis, where he was employed 30 years as a truck line inspector.

He and his wife, the former Sybil Smith, also owned and operated Perry's Trash and Treasure Store, 1948 Delmar Ave. Mrs. Perry survives.

Mr. Perry served with the U.S. Navy in World War II and he was a member of the Church of God in St. Louis.

Beside his wife, also surviving are a daughter, Yvonne Perry, Granite City; a son, Steve Perry, Sikeston, Mo.; and three grandchildren.

Arrangements are pending at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave. Friends may call 877-6500 for details.

Eads plan designed to ease traffic jams

By John D. Milazzo
Staff affiliate

PONTON BEACH—A special lane on the Eads Bridge for rush-hour vehicles with three or more passengers is the latest proposal to reduce traffic jams in the four years of bridge repair scheduled to begin April 15.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge will close April 15 for 14 months. When that project is completed, work on the Poplar Street Bridge will begin and will extend over a 3-year period.

Local and state transportation officials have been busy fine-tuning plans to cope with severe traffic congestion between St. Louis and Illinois in the interim.

Foremost among steps being taken to ease rush-hour traffic woes is a plan being developed by the Illinois Department of Transportation for a "high occupancy vehicle lane" on the Eads Bridge.

The plan would encourage the use of mass transportation and carpooling to ease congestion over the remaining Mississippi River bridges during the planned 14-month closure of the King Bridge.

The plans for the Eads Bridge EOV lane were mentioned by St.-St. Louis spokesman Tom Sturgess at a Madison County Transit District meeting March 31 and were acknowledged by an IDOT official later in the day.

Fred Bartelsmeyer, IDOT assistant District 8 engineer, said the HOV lane plan will be fully discussed in an April 13 conference, scheduled at the district's headquarters in the Regional State Office Complex at Collinsville.

As conceived, the plan would involve converting all traffic on the two-lane Eads Bridge during the morning rush hour and reversing the traffic flow in the evening.

The current two-way traffic lanes would be in force during hours other than rush hour periods, Bartelsmeyer said.

Under the plan now being negotiated between IDOT and the Terminal Railroad Association owner of the Eads Bridge—traffic in one rush hour lane of the bridge would be confined to high occupancy vehicles, that is, buses, vans and passenger cars with three or more passengers, Sturgess said.

Closure of the free King Bridge will force an estimated 13,500 vehicles each day to find ways to cross the river, District Engineer Dale Klorh has estimated.

Officials have said that if no contingency arrangements were made to reduce the number of vehicles trying to use remaining bridges during rush hour or if those efforts are unsuccessful—Illinois drivers bound for St. Louis could be facing as much as 30 minutes' additional time in traffic in the morning.

Complaint

Woman says trucks have bothered her

Alton Avenue sometimes block motorists' view of a stop sign at the corner of Alton and 12th. She added that the trucks often arrive early in the morning, waking her up with motor noise.

Mayor John Bellico and Alderman Ron Grzywacz told Holt they would speak to the company owner, John Taras, about the problem. They said they had talked to him in the past, with only temporary results. Bellico said the solution might be to pass an ordinance banning trucks on Alton Avenue.

"Police Chief Charlie Brickack acknowledged Wednesday that there have been 'sporadic incidents' such as Holt alleged. But he said that whenever he called Taras, he always corrected the problem immediately.

Brickack said the police had issued no citations to any truck drivers or to Taras.

"This is a small town," Brickack said. "You've got to work with people rather than against them."

Grzywacz said Wednesday that he has had past talks with Brickack and Taras about the trucks.

"We can't get anything done about it," Grzywacz said. "It seems to be getting worse than ever."

Taras could not be reached for comment.

Kids at Home targets growing need

By Lucyanna Boston
Staff affiliate

In the St. Louis Yellow Pages, the listings for child-care centers cover three pages. And enough has been written on how to select the right one for your child to fill several phone books.

But there are a growing number of young mothers who are looking for another option, in-home child care.

Reports from local agencies working to provide home care indicate that the search often can be frantic. There simply are not enough people available to provide in-home care to satisfy the demand.

In 1983, for example, the National Council of Jewish Women founded "Kids at Home," a program designed to address the needs of working families and provide educational and employment opportunities for those who might be interested in employment in the field of child care.

Since the program began, 200 "care givers" have been trained locally in a series of six, three-hour sessions, and 200 families have hired care givers. But that does not begin to satisfy the 4,000 parents who have called "Kids at Home" requesting help.

"There is a huge, huge demand" (for care givers), says Terry Goldblum, director of Kids at Home, who coordinates training program sessions.

"A lot of it has to do with being worried about what you do when a child is ill if they are being cared for outside the home and a lot of it has to do with bundling up a child on a cold winter day and taking them away from familiar surroundings," Goldblum says of the demand.

Other agencies involved in providing child care report similar demand.

Joyce Brown, who operates Part-Time Home Care Inc., estimates that she receives between 25 and 30 phone calls per day from mothers requesting home care.

"Most of them say they are concerned about their children picking up all the childhood illnesses that are passed around in groups of children," she says.

The staff of Part-Time Home Care Inc. includes a full range of personnel from registered nurses to baby sitters and provides service on a 24-hour basis.

"I've had parents call at 5 a.m. to ask for a sitter for that day because they have a sick child," Brown says.

One of the strongest area advocates of in-home child care is Derrita Reddie, a pediatric nurse, who operates Nannies by Nita, which is affiliated with the International Nanny Association.

"The consumer needs this type of child care but they have a very difficult time finding it," Reddie says. "The difficulty is that women who love children and want to work in a home setting are perceived as a lowly baby sitter. I am working to turn around this demeaning type of attitude so more professionals will want to enter the field. The European nanny program is much further advanced than the American program."

Good in-home child care does not come cheap.

While care for a 2-year-old at a day-care center runs between $75 to $80 per week, home child care can run anywhere from $100 to $500 per week, depending upon the requirements of the parents and the training of the person providing the care.

While these costs may seem high, they will ultimately pay off, says Reddie, who left nursing in a hospital setting to become a nanny because she wanted an ongoing relationship with the children she cared for. She strongly believes that better salaries are needed to attract more qualified people to the profession.

"I was hired by a woman who went looking for me in the nursing section," Reddie says. "She wanted a professional in regard to child care and that's what she got."

"People talk about saving for college but what is more important than giving a child the right start in life? You can put money aside long before you ever have the baby, so it's there when you need it."

Reddie suggests the possibility of two mothers sharing the expense of a child-care professional or corporations providing vouchers, could help defray the cost of child care.

"What you have to do is take the cost of child care that is there when you need it and is flexible, which could even involve staying over night if you have to travel on business, and translate that into productivity on your job," Reddie says. "If your situation at home is stable, you'll do a better job."

All three agencies emphasize the importance of requiring full background investigations and extensive references from those wanting employment in the child-care field. And they emphasize that their service is simply a conduit between people who want child care and those who are seeking jobs in the field.

"People want to be in control of who watches their children; they want to choose who comes in their home," says Brown, who will send out as many available members of her staff as necessary until both the client and the staff member feel comfortable with the situation.

For a nominal fee, "Kids at Home" mails out a list of those who have completed its course.

To be eligible for placement through Nannies by Nita, a child-care professional must have at least two years hands-on experience in a career oriented toward children, says Reddie, who prefers first to sit down with parents to discuss their requirements and then recruit accordingly.

"I head hunt for nannies," she says.

He's a hero

For demonstrating heroism and skill in attempting to save the life of his grandfather, Jody Grotz, 15, Granite City, has been honored by the Boy Scouts of America with its Heroism Award. Jody is a First Class Scout with Boy Scout Troop 5, Nameoki Methodist Church.

Jody, son of Linda Grotz, was at his grandparents' home in Scottsdale, Ariz., in July when his grandfather was stricken with a heart attack. Jody immediately called 911, then gave the phone to his grandmother and checked his grandfather for vital signs.

On the phone, a paramedic instructed Jody to begin cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Jody had been trained in CPR at a Boy Scout meeting. Jody continued CPR until the paramedics arrived.

Despite Jody's efforts, the massive heart attack took his grandfather's life.

Schneider in college play

Adam Schneider, Granite City, made the cast of the play "See How They Run" at Culver-Stockton College, Canton, Mo. Schneider is a junior, theatre major and son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Schneider, Granite City.

This year's featured guest artist is Dawn Wells, best known for her role as Mary Ann on "Gilligan's Island," who will appear with student actors and actresses during a three-day run, April 28-30 at the college.

Assistant professor of Theatre Arts and Speech, Michael Kramme, will direct the play and Joseph Harris will be technical designer.

For tickets, contact the Division of Fine Arts, (314) 288-5221.

BAC is attracting older students

Belleville Area College is attracting an aging — and employed — student body.

This year we're seeing an increased number of class enrollments by people 34 and older, while our traditional student population remains about the same," Registrar John M. Silvester said.

Silvester said the average BAC student is now 30 years old.

Field school to be at Mounds

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will sponsor a field school at Cahokia Mounds this summer.

Participants will be able to join archaeologists in field study at the Mounds site and classroom and lab sessions at SIUE. For more information, call the SIUE Office of Continuing Education at 692-3210.

College's dean's list includes many from area communities

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville had 1,004 students qualifying for the dean's list for the winter quarter.

To qualify for the dean's list a student must maintain a grade point average of 4.5 or better and have 12 hours calculated (B is equivalent to 4.0, A to 5.0).

Students qualifying for the dean's list are named below by hometown.

Jeffries accepted

The Admissions Office of Greenville College has notified Michele Jeffries that she has been accepted for the fall term of the 1988-89 academic year. Jeffries, who will complete her program at Granite City High School in May, is the daughter of Mrs. MaryAnn Jeffries, 2629 Center St.

1 John 2:15 "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world."

How amazing that God would create the world and all that is in it, put man here to have dominion, and then tell us not to love it! No, it is not contrary teaching. We just have a tendency to confuse loving the world with enjoying the world. God wants us to enjoy. To have abundant life. But we are to possess life and not have life possess us.

Clearly, we are to love God with all our hearts, and to enjoy the life He gives us. We should remember that we brought nothing into this world and we take nothing out.

Live your life for God. Do it one day at a time. And enjoy it.

Q: I believe because of the changes in the industry I have worked in for the past 30 years that I may take an early retirement sometime in the next three years. What should I look at now to make retirement easier?

A: Anyone considering early retirement should take careful stock of his or her total financial situation. Remember, that a person who is sixty years old may live for another 20-25 years or more, and no one knows what the cost of living will be then. If you would require Social Security, pension and savings account interest to live now, you may have problems in the future. If you are able to meet current expenses with Social Security and live in a house with no mortgage, with a private pension and savings as a cushion, you'll probably keep up with inflation while it is linked to movements in the consumer index. Private pensions, however, will very probably not keep up with inflation. After examining your situation, you may want to work longer to build up more Social Security and invest in an IRA plan now.

Something . . . they don't learn in school!

We are proud to have the opportunity to provide young boys and girls with the responsibility of delivering our newspaper. Responsibility and financial management are two basics that are on the job training when a boy or girl accepts a newspaper delivery route. The responsibility is great because the entire effort of very talented people depends on their delivery of the newspaper on time no matter what weather conditions or other circumstances. Being an independent merchant he or she is responsible financially for the payment and collection of money for newspapers delivered. We recognize the responsibilities both financial and job performance and we would like to congratulate the girls and boys who value this experience and do an excellent job of satisfying our customers.

'Skinned dogs' raised ire

People were upset when they believed the bodies of about 20 skinned dogs had been found near Illinois 111 in Pontoon Beach.

The thought of dogs being mutilated was appalling and State Police speculated that the work of some insane cult. But the attitude of concern seemed to change to indifference when the bodies were later identified as being wild animals.

Dogs or foxes, raccoon or beaver — it should still offend the senses of people who understand that at this point in man's development he still finds a macho need to trap and skin animals to use the fur for the sake of satisfying vanity.

Disposal answers needed

For many persons, trash sites south of Madison are their first view of the Quad City area as they approach from St. Louis and the Poplar Street Bridge.

It is an unattractive view but, fortunately, won't get any worse, at least for awhile. Landfill dumping won't be resumed there, thanks to a 14-10 negative vote March 28 by the St. Clair County Board.

The landfill abuts Madison County and is far from populated areas of St. Clair. This being the case, it would have been easy for the latter county to give a green light for further landfill expansion, since few St. Clair residents would complain. But the board correctly took a stand against massive shipments to Metro East of trash and garbage that may cause serious problems in future years.

Trash obviously must be dealt with somewhere, somehow, but public officials' increasing opposition to specific expansion proposals is a positive development. It focuses attention on the need for better ways of dealing with trash, and getting citizens' attention usually is a giant step toward solving an issue.

We have no particular beef regarding Milam Landfill, which has been closed since 1984, other than that it is in a low, sometimes damp area. In blocking its reopening, the St. Clair County Board took note that reopenings would add only about six months to the present five-year capacity of sites in its county.

Recycling, incineration and other methods may not offer a full remedy, either, it was brought out at a meeting of Madison County officials March 29. But a variety of approaches may be wise, with trash burial, burning and re-use each taking care of a significant fraction of the total. Estimates show recycling might reduce waste by 25 percent, and composting of grass and leaves might account for another 15 percent.

Now that the Madison County Board has voted against growth of the Barton Landfill near Edwardsville, where groundwater contamination was feared by citizens, the board is right in moving quickly to study alternatives.

Most potential approaches involve cost and uncertainty — clearly spotlighting the lack of adequate state and federal research and guidance for communities and counties hard-pressed by solid waste pollution.

Illinois has taken some steps, but its funding for community recycling programs has been delayed by a court ruling against collection of waste disposal fees. A dispute between the governor and House speaker blocked revival of the recycling experiment late last year. Cook and DuPage counties, meanwhile, are feuding about how far Chicago garbage should be shipped into rural areas.

House Majority Leader Jim Mike is among those trying to reinstate landfill fees in a way that would both satisfy the courts and finance progress toward ending pollution. We wish him, and everybody else, well in such attempts.

Medicaid slow, getting slower

St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis and four Chicago hospitals are right in going to court this week to speed the state's payment of Medicaid bills.

The state government admittedly is in financial stress, but by picking on money-strapped hospitals it is going to force some of them out of existence before the 1990s are over. This slowly cannot be a desired result, since many areas are served by only one hospital.

Delaying its payments for longer and longer periods, the Department of Public Aid now owes $23 million to Illinois hospitals. And this may worsen rapidly if, as the department predicts, it runs out of money for the July 1987-June 1988 year on April 30. Reimbursement claims filed in May and June are not expected to be paid until mid-July or later.

The state's late and inadequate payments for care given to welfare patients have contributed to the closing of 12 hospitals in the past two years, and six to nine others may shut down in 1988, the Illinois Hospital Association says.

Whether Illinois can legally get away with delays of 60, 90 or more days rather than the stipulated 30 days may be left to the courts to determine. But it shouldn't choose such vulnerable targets from which to borrow money it isn't willing to provide by normal means.

Legislators who raise taxes risk becoming ex-legislators, it is said, but those who "serve the public" by considering their own self-interest are stretching the meaning of service.

An example: The Illinois House on March 23 cast only 64 affirmative votes rather than the 71 required to fund the state's new Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan. The 1986 law set April 1, 1988, as the effective date but the vote caused implementation to be delayed until July or later.

Summerstage people 'doers'

To the editor:

The human beast can be tamed by good, is the central theme of the two-act musical play, "Beauty and the Beast," written by Ann Johnson Scott with music by Dan Vizzer, both of Granite City.

An elaborate stage changed the Granite City Township Hall into a medieval castle where the non-profit group Summerstage entertained about 600 persons recently.

For me, and my children, the play was thoroughly entertaining. I think it rivals the cartoon films Walt Disney shows. Beauty has a combination of Cinderella and Snow White, with a touch of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice."

The audience had fun interacting with the performers during the show. After the final bow, the children got autographs from Beauty (Pamela Harrison) and the transformed Beast (a really handsome Garry Pregler), all the other actors, and even the stagehands.

Scott, Vizzer and Summerstage Inc. deserve a "tip-of-the-hat" for creating a little magic for the young at heart of Granite City.

Their hard work will pay dividends in the future as the audience reflects on the values demonstrated in the play: Love over greed; good is better than evil.

The Summerstage people are doers, people having fun entertaining others and showing some of the possibilities of life when people use their talents.

Woman wants child in school

To the editor:

In a recent article in the Press-Record, the school board was debating whether to let a young boy with AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) attend public school after he had his own classroom built for him. The mother then realized it was in her son's best interest for him to attend a real classroom.

I feel that if we want this young man to develop well both socially and mentally we must allow him to attend a real classroom with other students.

Most of a child's life is spent in the classroom and, for him to develop well socially, he must be with kids his own age.

We have heard many stories about catching the deadly AIDS virus. However, there are ways to work around our fear; we can build the child his own restroom. The school board did manage to build the child his own classroom. I'm sure we can manage to build his private restroom.

The most important thing we can do to help everyone in the community who does not know all the facts about AIDS is to educate and inform the citizens of Granite City of the facts.

We can always argue, what if this is to happen. But what if a natural disaster was to happen tomorrow? Will we be able to live with the guilt that this young man never had the chance to participate in the classroom with kids his own age?

No parking near park or games

To the editor:

I've lived in Granite City for 60 years. I don't ever remember a street for residents' parking only.

Now the people along Peeling Road and the 2900 block of State Street have their own little parking lot.

If you want to go to Wilson Park and watch a Little League baseball game, you can't park on the street.

If you want to go to the high school and watch a football or baseball game, you can't park on the street. I can't park in front of their houses, but they can come over to Fortune Drive and park in front of my house.

I guess the next move by the City Council members will be to make the streets they live on "For Residents Only."

Now that the council has made the first move, I guess we will see signs by churches and other schools next.

Skilled response by Madison police

To the editor:

I commend Madison's Police Department. I have had several occasions to call upon them for assistance and they have always responded quickly.

Recently, my house was burglarized and my portable TV was taken along with a serving tray. This tray was of little value, except to me. It was an anniversary gift.

When I reported the theft I had no hopes of ever seeing either item again.

But, through the extra effort of our police force, namely Sgt. Baley, they indeed recovered the tray and TV.

In the days when police work is far from in the news, seldom is it told the good they do in small instances such as this. I, for one, appreciate the dedication and caring of our police force in Madison.

Strike ends, other news at newspaper

News is always in the paper, but here are a few "news" items about the paper:

FIRST UP is that the strike in front of the Press-Record-Journal building ended weeks back. From the newspaper's view, an unfortunate aspect of the strike is that some people wrongly thought it was against the Press-Record-Journal.

It wasn't. The one person striking in front of the newspaper's offices worked for Madison Printing Co., a separate business housed in the building. The strike was against Madison Printing, which the newspaper contracts with for printing services.

As with any other service, the newspaper could take its printing business elsewhere; just as somebody who doesn't like hamburgers at one restaurant can go elsewhere.

It is unfortunate that some people who knew the strike was not against the newspaper seemed to ignore the fact and tried to make it seem otherwise.

CONCERNING AWARDS, the newspaper took four honorable mentions in the Southern Illinois Editorial Association contest: general excellence, editorial coverage and overall makeup. SIEA is the same group which recently honored our copy desk chief, Bill Winter, by including him in its Master Editors of Southern Illinois Hall of Fame.

In the year-end awards sponsored by the Press Association of Greater St. Louis, photographer Patrick Foley was a finalist in the news category and I managed the same in the news feature category as well as a first place in editorial writing.

HUMOR COLUMNISTS have a hard way to go. To begin with, being funny is hard work for most of us and it's almost impossible to be funny without making fun of something.

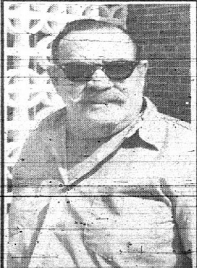

Write about postal rates going up and the Post Office will get mad. Write about IRS hassles, cabbies like scabbies, endomorphs insurance agents, or editors with pathetic Vandyke beards taking their worst faults and stretching them for satire's sake — and the poor humor columnist gets grief.

How humor columnists write knowing they'll be hollered at is hard to understand, but the majority of people appreciate humor, providing that majority isn't the target.

Granite City's first condos opening soon

GRANITE CITY — Construction of the city's first condominium complex, Sunshine Meadows Condominium Development, 2574 Parkway Drive, are well under way and the display unit is expected to open May 15.

"I'm from Granite City and I know a lot of people here who have talked about a project like this for years," builder and developer Bud Gosnell, Holman Construction Co., Granite City, said. "I don't like to see Granite City go down the tubes. I think I'm helping do something to help everyone."

"This is my first condominium development as developer. I've built a lot of residential homes here and I've built offices, hotels and motels. I worked with the architect for quite awhile to come up with this project."

"I believe this is what people say they want."

The complex consists of 16 units, all with two bedrooms and two baths, and offers three floorplans. They offer fireplaces, private decks, sun decks and security systems. The complex has underground parking. The prices range around $70,000.

John Krekovich and Bud Gosnell

"We think our primary appeal is to older people who now own homes," John Krekovich, owner of John Krekovich Realty, said.

"People who are retired and tired of having to take care of the lawn or worried about safety. People who have lived the dream of owning a home are now finding it's too much effort. But they still want to live in Granite City."

"Security is the big thing," Gosnell said. "Maybe they go to Florida for several months in the winter. Or visiting children. This way they don't have to worry about their house being secured and maintained while they're gone."

The complex features an alarm system and communications via telephone, with persons wanting to enter the building. Entry can only be made after a resident remotely releases the door lock. Residents travel from the garage to their apartments in an elevator. The doors inside the building are also secured.

"We're shooting for those older people whose homes are paid for," Krekovich said. "Then those homes become available for young people. That can only bring good things to the community."

"There were no more than 10 or 15 new houses built in Granite City in the past year. Now we are talking about 16 at one time. It's probably the largest project in Granite City ever. Really, what we are talking about are single-family homes under a single roof."

Floor plans

The Sunshine Meadows Condominium Development, 2574 Parkway Drive, features three floor plans at three prices. All have two bedrooms and two bathrooms. The developer and realtor expect the units to appeal to the older members of the population.

Crawford earns award

Cheryl Crawford, Shelter Insurance agent in Granite City, was honored recently in Columbia, Mo., as one of the company's top producers in life insurance. She earned the award by selling life insurance worth at least $1 million in 1987 while meeting all other corporate standards. Less than 20 percent of the 1,160 licensed Shelter agents qualified for the honor last year. Crawford has been with the firm since 1981 and has qualified for awards every year since 1983. Shelter is a mutual, multi-line company with agents in 13 midwestern and southern states.

Q. Could you give me some tips on using a financial planner for future investments?

A. There is no doubt about it; every person should have a personal or family financial plan. This plan should document how much a family or an individual earns, what and how the income is spent, and how the family saves or invests for the future.

While there are many legitimate financial planners' of investment advisors, there are also many unscrupulous ones who swindle millions of dollars from consumers every year. These proclaimed financial planners have only one interest: to put your money in their pockets.

It is extremely important to scrutinize a planner's background, credentials, business reputation, and track record with previous clients before considering using him. Most financial planners or investment advisors are registered with the Secretary of State, Securities Department, or if they also sell insurance, they are registered with the Department of Insurance.

Either way, it is always advisable to check with either agency before you consider placing an investment with anyone.

Home Shopping

Q. I recently watched the Home Shopping Club on my cable TV network. Is it advisable to shop at home by cable television?

A. Shopping at home either by mail or by cable television is strictly an individual decision. Cable television shopping, however, is a relatively recent concept in consumer buying. Even with its relative newness, there are hundreds of thousands of Americans now shopping at home.

Generally, the products are displayed and offered at what announcers describe as discount prices. Viewers then call toll-free telephone numbers to order merchandise by charging it on a major credit card. Some programs even accept personal checks.

While bargains may be had, consumers should determine the true value of an offered product before ordering. Comparison shopping will help make the determination.

Low price claims are indeed the best deal.

The consumer should always be cautious. One reason is that the quoted list price might not give the full picture. For example, there have been instances where a product is readily available at the local retail outlet for less than the TV discount price. This is particularly true if the product has been discontinued.

Child day care

Q. I am looking for a child day care facility for my small baby. Can you give me some tips?

A. Selecting a child day care facility is perhaps one of the most important decisions a parent or guardian makes in raising a child.

The two options available for choice is either the group setting or the individual home setting.

The advantages and disadvantages of these types of care, along with the many different versions of them, make it clear there is no one proven best method of day care.

Although individual care in the home may provide your child with the security and comfort of remaining in family surroundings, a group care center will generally help your child develop more social interaction skills.

The following is a list of things to look for when selecting child day care: a safe, clean environment; an adequate, enthusiastic and capable staff (a ratio of one event.

High school special education students will be taken to the job fair with their teachers.

The annual event is a combined project of the Parents for Special Education and the Region I Special Education District, with the cooperation of Illinois Job Service. Employers and agencies may make reservations by calling Carolyn Smoot, 931-2943, or the Region I office at 676-6200. There is no cost to job seekers or employers.

In making your selection, use your intuition.

If children at the facility don't seem happy—that might be an indication of problems. Ask for references from parents.

Once you know your options, select the program that best meets your child's and your needs.

Claim by mail

A. A few days ago, I received notification from a marketing research company that I've been chosen to take part in testing a new product.

However, they've requested that I send a payment to them to "claim" the product before they can send me anything about this process?

A. Marketing research is an essential step in the development of a new product because manufacturers need to know whether and how well the product might sell. There are numerous marketing survey and research firms nationwide that conduct studies in many different ways.

Even though each marketing study differs from another, generally speaking neither the product's developer nor the research company requests any payment from the consumer for the privilege of taking part in one.

Moreover, marketing research firms are not engaged in selling the products to be tested.

Some questionable "market studies" are, in actuality, merely merchandising schemes where the fee to "claim" the tested product is really its retail cost in disguise.

About real estate

By Don Campbell

Testamentary trust good for beginners

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I have been married almost 43 years and to this day my wife has never written a check or paid a bill or even did grocery shopping. In the early years there was no excuse, but now she is too nervous to learn to drive and also too sickly.

My question: I owe $18,000 on my 7 percent G.I. mortgage with payments of $250 a month. I should tell you, too, that I had serious surgery a couple of months ago, and if anything happens to me, I don't know how my wife would cope with the payments on the house and the other bills. She refuses to think about it or discuss it.

Now, I expect to inherit $20,000 and would like to know if it's a good idea to pay off my mortgage balance and have the house free and clear. We have no savings to speak of and our combined income is about $500 a month, which leaves us broke after all bills are paid.

Also, my son may give us a piece of land that's worth about $16,000. Our mortgage will be 15 years old in the middle of May and that is when we would pay it off if you think it's a good idea. I would be embarrassed if anyone recognized us by this letter, but thanks for your advice. We are both 66.

Answer: Your secret's safe with me — I changed your initials and moved you. I'm afraid that when you married your wife she found herself with a real palsy. I know how difficult it can be to drag a spouse of either sex kicking and screaming into the real world of finance, but it's a real disservice to have her, 43 years later, so totally "out of it."

Well, that's enough scolding. It's too late for you to try to give her a crash course in finances. No, it's definitely not a good idea to pay off your mortgage with that $20,000 inheritance. That inheritance and — if it materializes — the liquid proceeds from your son's gift should go into investments that will help better your financial position.

A free and clear home, as desirable as it sounds, and usually is, simply won't solve your problem. Even if the house is free and clear you're still got a dilemma. How is she going to cope with taxes, insurance, maintenance? Your problem isn't a real estate problem, unfortunately.

What you've got to do is approach a local commercial bank and establish a "testamentary trust" with them. This will install the bank as your wife's trustee after your death and, from the proceeds of your investments and such posthumous sources of income as your wife's survivor's Social Security benefits, will make her mortgage, tax and insurance payments for her and handle any other unanticipated expenses.

That's your single most important and most immediate challenge — to see that there's someone taking care of her if you're not around to do it because without you she's sure a babe in the woods in terms of handling her own affairs.

Dale Streif succeeds father as Vandalia Bus president, other new officers named CASEYVILLE — Vandalia Bus Lines President Leon Streif announced that he has resigned as president of the company effective April 1.

Vice-President Dale Streif will succeed his father as president of the charter bus company.

In accordance with the move, the company's executive board will change to the following: president, Dale Streif, senior vice president, Dennis Streif, vice president, Roger Streif; secretary, Judy Streif; and treasurer, Noel Wright.

Leon Streif pleaded guilty March 21 in federal court, Alton, to charges including fraudulently billing Amtrak for bus service. He could receive up to 18 years, but the prosecution recommends a five-year sentence.

Public paying way for credit deadbeats

By Paul Harvey
Commentary

I'm the credit manager of a major city retailer.

I no longer decide who gets credit and who doesn't; the computer decides.

The family that charged that apartment full of furniture would never have had my approval as a worthy credit risk.

Though the husband has a job now, he's rarely held any one job for more than a few months.

The family lives in one of the city's low-income housing high-rises, notorious for its high rate of crime, delinquency and deadbeats.

But our government Equal Credit Opportunity Act is intended to prevent discrimination — states unequivocal guidelines as to who can be turned down for credit and who must be approved.

And the computer, based on these guidelines, approved the family in question.

Now the family has made no payment for eight months, has ignored or rejected all appeals.

Logically, my employer must repossess the furniture.

But nobody in the city, nobody at any price, is willing to go into that public housing project and bring that furniture out.

So we write it off. The furniture stays.

But who pays for that furniture? You do. In the higher prices that retailer must charge other customers, the honest people "pay extra" for the deadbeats.

Just one division of one major retailer "writes off" as uncollectable hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise each year.

Bank charge cards such as Visa and MasterCard are awash in bad debt. Some of it relates to stolen credit cards; most of it represents cardholders spending beyond what they can afford.

Bad debts in 1986 totaled $4 billion, 85 percent of it from default-related credit-card debts.

That's not double the default rating for the year previous and, when 1987 is all added up, that year's loss could double again.

Many Americans, to pay off their accumulated credit-card debt, are mortgaging their homes. Too late, they realize that they've escaped the frying pan for the fire; the interest rate on home-equity loans may run — counting fees and closing costs — 14 percent to more than 15 percent per year.

But the worst culprit is the government which, enforcing the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, is requiring that credit be extended to people who are demonstrably irresponsible.

Byers urging more hearings on constitutional convention

Harold Byers, Highland, a Madison County Board member and former Illinois legislator, has called the Committee of 50 a group of "Con-Con killers." He favors holding a state constitutional convention.

Appearing before the committee's hearing in Chicago March 31, Byers called on the committee to schedule hearings in Metro East.

Despite the presence on the committee of Illinois Democratic Chairman Vince Demuzio and St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, no public hearing has been scheduled in this region, the second largest metropolitan area in the state, Byers said.

He said the Committee of 50 is trying to stop a constitutional convention, which will be on the Illinois ballot Nov. 8. Byers said the decision about calling the convention will be made by voters, who polls show favor it, with over 62 percent wanting to see a convention.

The decision "does not belong to politicians," he stressed. Remaining hearings are April 19, 7 to 10 p.m., Peoria, Peoria Marquette Hotel; April 26, 7 to 10 p.m., Urbana, University of Illinois Levi Faculty Center, Room 4079, 19 W. Illinois St.

May 5, 7 to 10 p.m., Carbondale, SIU Student Center, Lincoln Drive; May 12, 7 to 10 p.m., Chicago, University of Illinois-Chicago, Chicago Circle Center, Room 605, 750 S. Halsted St.

May 19, 7 to 10 p.m., Springfield, Stratton Office Building, 3rd floor, Capital Development Board Room, Monroe and College streets; and May 24, 7 to 10 p.m., Wheaton, DuPage County Board Auditorium, 421 N. County Farm Road.

Byers called for hearings in every county in Illinois. He mentioned the cities of Granite City, Alton, Edwardsville, Collinsville and Belleville, among others.

Turn engine off before gasing up

SPRINGFIELD — The combination of self-service gas stations and cold weather pose the threat of "a horrible fire or explosion just waiting to happen," the Illinois state fire marshal fears.

State Fire Marshal Tom Bestudik issued a warning urging motorists to obey state law and turn off their engines before filling up at the pump.

Besides the increased hazard of fire or explosion from leaving the motor running, the station owner could also lose his operating permit for allowing the practice, Bestudik noted.

"We respect the problem of keeping warm but we don't believe public safety should be sacrificed to avoid a few minutes in the cold," he said.

Fire marshal's office spokesman Earle Heffley said most station owners are vigilant in enforcing the state law and shutting off the pumps if they see a motorist filling up with the car still running.

Most vehicle owners also observe the signs required to be posted at service stations, notifying them that engines must be turned off, he said.

Income tax task tougher this year

Now that income taxes have been "simplified," probably just about everyone has filed his or her return, right? Wrong. Most people seem to feel the tax chore is still complex, and the filing rate is trailing last year's pace.

The deadline is April 15, and your friendly neighborhood tax collector admits that many taxpayers are still bogged down in completing their federal and state returns.

The Internal Revenue Service offers federal tax information, toll-free, at 1-800-424-1040. That same number can put you in touch with the IRS Problem Resolution Office. And federal tax forms, documents and publications can be obtained by calling 1-800-424-3676.

ILLINOIS' Department of Revenue is extending the hours for its Monday-to-Friday toll-free telephone assistance, and also will stay open this Saturday, April 9.

Those with general questions about state taxes, or who need simple aid in finishing their returns, can call 1-800-732-8866. Assistance always is available from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The April 9 hours will be 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and the schedule will be 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on April 11, 12 and 13.

As the deadline for state tax returns draws even nearer, phone help will be provided from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. April 14 and 15.

Persons who want to ask about their state refund may call an "express lane," during regular business hours only, at 1-800-624-2450.

SPRING HAS SPRUNG and baseball is back, as of tomorrow.

Redbird Express weekend bus service from Beulah to St. Louis will include routing along Illinois 111, Chain of Rocks Road, Illinois 208, Nameoki Road via the Nameoki Village Shopping Center, Madison Avenue, Broadway, Illinois 3 and the McKinley Bridge.

For games starting at 12:35, the Nameoki Village departure time will be 11:14; for 1:15 games, 11:54; for 5:35 games, 4:14; for 7:05 games, 5:44; and for 7:35 games, 6:14.

ON THE SUBJECT of transportation, the Bi-State Development Agency has indicated which way it is leaning regarding extensions of the basic "light rail system" route proposal.

The speedy trains are slated to operate between East St. Louis and Lambert Airport, U.S. Rep. Jack Beecher isn't sure he favors Metro Link but concedes connecting it with St. Charles might make sense.

A study to be completed in June is focusing on four possible route extensions, Bi-State Executive Director R. Raleigh D'Amato says. One would head in that direction, going west along Interstate 70 to the Mid-Rivers Mall in St. Peters.

Others would link the East St. Louis terminus to Illinois 159 and 161 in the Belleville area; branch off at Kingshighway and follow Interstate 64 to Chesterfield Mall; and extend from Grand Boulevard to Interstate 55 and Butler Hill Road in south St. Louis City.

THE TRACTION SOCIETY of Illinois has set its annual Railroad Swap Meet (10 a.m. and dinner (5:30 p.m.) for Saturday, April 30, for the Alton Ramada Inn.

Reservations at $10.20 per person are due by April 15 to Keith E. Sherman, 5003 Vollmer Lane, Godfrey 62036.

The Illinois Traction Society is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving and presenting the history of the Illinois Terminal Railroad and its predecessors.

Illinois Terminal, which no longer exists, was owned by a group of railroads. Its role included freight switching operations in Metro East and St. Louis as well as passenger service on trolleys.

FEELING BRILLIANT today? If $x + 2y = 5$, $2x + 9 = 9$ and $y + 2x = 10$, what is $x + y + z$? You and your teammate have three minutes to solve this problem.

It was one of the questions in 18 regional two-person team contests sponsored in March by the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Winning high school students are advancing to state math competition April 30 at Normal.

Stumped? The answer is 4. (At least that's what the ICTM says).

AROUND THE REGION:

The band called Three of a Kind will play for a dance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 9, sponsored by Parents Without Partners Area Chapter 470, Granite City. The location will be the Croatian Home, 10th Street and Madison Avenue, the former Madison Bowling Lanes, where I used to compete in the Businessmen's Bowling League.

State news

Animal species added to endangered list

The Illinois Endangered Species Protection Board increased the number of endangered species from 58 to 71, and the number of threatened species from 23 to 30.

Some of the native birds, fish and reptiles added to the list may be experiencing a population decline from loss of habitat or from environmental contaminants, said Sue Lauzon, Endangered Species coordinator. In other cases, species may not be in more danger of population decline but more information has been obtained leading to the listing.

The findings will be published in the Illinois Register, and then become final after a review by the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules. For more information, persons may contact the Department of Conservation, Sue Lauzon, Endangered Species coordinator, 524 S. Second St., Springfield 62701-1787 or call (217) 785-8687.

Illinois teen-agers' records released

Two songs confronting teen sexuality, written by Illinois teen-agers, have been released for airplay under sponsorship of the Parents Too Soon Rock 'n' Romance Song Writing Contest, Volume II.

The winner was Larry Jones, a 16-year-old student from East St. Louis. The contest was developed to combat teen pregnancy as well as the negative consequences of adolescent childbearing and parenting. The Illinois Department of Public Health says 22,000 infants in 1986 were born to Illinois adolescents. Teen-agers interested in Parents Too Soon services can call the program's toll-free hotline, 1-800-4-CALL-US.

Waste reduction best way to manage

A report released by the Illinois

Department of Energy and Natural Resources says finding ways to reduce waste is the best method of solid waste management.

Reducing consumer and industrial waste lessens the economic and environmental impacts inherent in managing waste after it has been created, the report said. Options to promote industrial waste reduction may include policies to change a product's raw materials content, change production methods, redesign products or recycle materials.

IEPA director resigns

Dr. Richard J. Carlson, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, has submitted his resignation, effective May 3. Carlson, who has the longest tenure of any IEPA director, is leaving to form an environmental consulting company based in Chicago.

Utility bill plan aids needy families

The study of a state plan to ensure heating and electric service to low-income households who pay 12 percent of their income toward utility bills is a success, according to the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources and the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The program, the Illinois Residential Affordable Payment Program, reduced disconnections of full-year participants in the sample to about 4 percent, compared to 15 percent for eligible non-participants.

In many utility service areas, no participants were disconnected, the report said. Before the program, bills of participants were generally 20 to 25 percent of their incomes. The program, due to end Jan. 1, is being considered for permanent status by the Legislature.

Tiger mosquitoes no danger, others are

The presence of Asian Tiger mosquitoes in Illinois has not been associated with illness in the state, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health. The breed was introduced to the United States in 1985 in used tires shipped into Texas.

The Asian Tiger mosquitoes find water-filled used tires ideal for breeding. In this way, they are similar to two other disease-bearing mosquitoes that have been common in Illinois for as long as 50 years: the Culex and the Tree-hole mosquito. Both these carry different types of encephalitis.

To reduce risk of mosquito-borne illness, the Health Department suggests residents eliminate mosquito breeding sites by: properly storing or discarding old items that can collect water, such as old tires, buckets, vases and tin cans; drilling holes in old tires used for swings so they cannot hold water; emptying weekly bird baths; wading pools, rain barrels and other items that could collect water; using liberal amounts of mosquito repellent when outdoors; and checking window and door screens to make sure they are tight-fitting.

Vegetable gardening to be topic here

Because this is the season for planning and planting vegetable gardens or planting vegetables around the home, a class has been scheduled in Granite City for April 13.

The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service Consumer and Homemaking Education Program is offering garden tips and skills for low-income families and individuals.

Madison County Community Development is co-sponsoring the program through a Community Service Block Grant. The grant will provide each low-income participating family a voucher to purchase seeds, plants and tools at Schermer's Garden Shop in Madison or K mart in Granite City.

Participants will receive basic information about gardening skills, while more experienced gardeners will receive hints to enhance their expertise.

The purpose for the garden program is to help each family supplement its food budget, get good exercise, further family togetherness and acquire gardening skills.

The garden class is for anyone who enrolls, but the vouchers are only available to low-income persons residing in Granite City, Madison, Venice, Ponton Beach and adjacent unincorporated areas of Madison County.

The class will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 13. To enroll in the class, persons may call Wilma Hancock at 876-4513.

Volunteerism more than doubles in Illinois

Volunteer efforts in Illinois state agencies more than doubled from last year's total and provided services that would have cost Illinois taxpayers more than $48 million.

An annual report, issued March 31 by Gov. James R. Thompson and prepared by the Governor's Office of Voluntary Action, stated that more than 83,000 Illinoisans volunteered their efforts in Fiscal 1987, an increase from the 41,346 in Fiscal Year 1986.

The report shows that more than five million hours were donated in 1987, an increase from the three million hours recorded in the previous year in all areas of state government.

"Obviously, I am pleased with this report," Thompson said. "At a time when we face a number of fiscal challenges, the efforts of volunteers are particularly significant. Through the efforts of these dedicated men and women, we are able to offer services that, under other circumstances, the state could not afford to provide."

"The fact of the matter is that the State of Illinois should be doing more to help in the areas of aging, mental health, and children and family services. Volunteers bridge an important gap and provide necessary humanitarian aid to people in need. I encourage anyone interested in volunteering to pursue the opportunities available in state government and help us move forward," said Thompson.

In Fiscal Year 1987, 83,790 volunteers worked 5,339,498 hours in 37 state departments and agencies. A $9-per-hour pay scale (a figure used by VOLUNTEER, The National Center) was used to calculate that taxpayers in Illinois saved $48,055,482 from the work of volunteers.

Thompson has declared the week of April 17-23 as Volunteer Week in Illinois to coincide with national observances of volunteerism. The week is designed to encourage citizens to become involved in the volunteer movement.

"The millions of Americans who give this service are essential to our country's welfare," Thompson said in his proclamation. "Giving unselfishly of their time, they enhance all areas of life, and their volunteer service is a major element in building better communities, better states and a better sense of well-being."

'Princess Bride' heads list of video releases

By Nick and Eileen Pacino
Staff affiliates

A bonanza of first-rate titles have been released on video and "The Princess Bride" (1987) certainly will be one of the most popular with viewers. Rob Reiner's fairy tale spoof stars Cary Elwes and Robin Wright as the star-crossed lovers who brave shrieking oaks, fire, swamps, rodents of unusual size, a six-fingered sadist and an evil prince to finally be united in true love through the efforts of a hot-blooded Spaniard (Mandy Patinkin) seeking revenge and a stumblin' Giant (Andre the Giant).

Buttercup and Westley and the mythical kingdom of Florin are the inspired creation of Oscar-winning screenwriter William Goldman ("Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid") and the film has been honored with an Oscar nomination for Best Original Song. Nelson Entertainment, PG for language, color, 98 mins., VHS/Beta.

Also new on video is "The Hidden" (1987). This combination of "Alien" and "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" was directed by Jack Sholder, who also directed "A Nightmare on Elm Street Part 2: Freddy's Revenge." Special effects and spectacular chase scenes fail to outshine an interesting partnership of Michael Nouri ("Flashdance") as a Los Angeles detective and Kyle MacLachlan ("Blue Velvet") as an FBI agent. The pair is trying to find out who or what is behind a series of robberies, grisly murders, two stolen Ferraris and a police station takeover. An interstellar pursuit of sons and global control are the pieces to this creative puzzle. Media Home Entertainment, rated R for language, violence and sexual situations, 98 mins., color, VHS/Beta, hi-fi.

Yet another blockbuster from 1987 is "Innerspace," a science-fiction comedy from producer Steven Spielberg and director Joe Dante. Dennis Quaid is Tuck Pendleton, pilot whose offer to be injected into a rabbit is fouled up when spies steal one of two zeroed-out needed to enlarge the miniaturized Tuck, who now resides inside the unlikely body of nerdy supermarket clerk, Jack Putter (Martin Short).

Plenty of sight gags and humor result from this situation and Meg Ryan as Tuck's girlfriend Lydia adds some spice to the mixture. Warner Home Video, rated PG for language and violence, color, 120 mins., VHS/Beta, stereo.

STAR-CROSSED LOVERS: Cary Elwes and Robin Wright play a romantic couple who brave rodents of unusual size and a six-fingered sadist in "The Princess Bride."

"Maurice," the latest effort by James Ivory and Ismail Merchant ("Room With a View"), is another triumph of literary adaptation, lush production values and authentic period settings that make a delicate subject moving and accessible. Based on E.M. Forster's suppressed 1914 novel, it focuses on the struggles of a middle-class youth coming to terms with his homosexuality and also his place in a hypocritical class-conscious society.

Maurice is played convincingly by newcomer James Wilby; his platonic lover, Clive, is played by Hugh Grant. Ben Kingsley plays the eccentric hypnotist who attempts to "cure" Maurice and Rupert Graves is the earthy gamekeeper who awakens Maurice's physical passion and belief in his place in life. Lorimar Home Video, rated R for nudity, sexual theme, color, 139 mins., VHS/Beta, closed captioned.

"China Girl" is an interesting variation on the Romeo and Juliet theme. Directed by Abel Ferrara (who did the pilot for "Crime Story"), the film is set on the gritty streets of New York's Chinatown and Little Italy. At a local dance club (shades of "West Side Story"), Tony, an Italian street tough falls for shy Tyan. Their romance ignites a violent gang war between Italian and Chinese gangs forcing the lovers to seek a way out of their outcast world of tradition and violently defended turf. James Russo of "Extremities" also stars. Vestron Video, R for violence, language and sexual situations, color, 90 mins., VHS/Beta.

FAST FORWARD: Other new videos include "My Pet Monster, Vol. 4." The Beastur Blaster is the only way to thwart the kidnapping of the Pet Monster, Pee Wee's Playhouse, Vols. 1-3: "Ice Cream Soup," "Luan for Two," "Ratay Day." Come down to the Playhouse where the outlook is funny skies and belly laughs with Jamb, Cowboy Curtis and the King of Cartoons; "Lady Lovelocks, Vol. 4, The Dragon Tree" and "Vol. 5, To Take a Castle." Lady Lovelocks must help Shining Glory reclaim his castle. All above are on Hi-Tops Video.

Also new is "Flowers in the Attic" (New World). Four innocent children are tormented by a vicious grandmother and caretaker vying for inheritance, with Victoria Tennant and Louise Fletcher; "Dancers" (Warner Home Video); Mikhail Baryshnikov is a young ballet superstar who is tired of his playboy ways and is searching for love; "Date with an Angel" (HBO). A young man (Michael Knight) about to marry a lovely socialite (Phoebe Cates) becomes guardian for an earthbound angel (Emanuelle Beart) who is sought by the young man's future father-in-law for marketing purposes.

"Nightflyers" is a ripoff of "Aliens" that stars Michael Praed and Catherine Mary Stewart.

art and centers on a team of scientists who are threatened by an evil presence on an ancient space freighter. The 1983 crime thriller "High and Low" (Pacific Arts) stars Toshiro Mifune in a story about an industrialist facing a moral dilemma when his chauffeur's son is kidnapped. Japanese film noir directed by Akira Kurosawa (Seven Samurai, Ran).

Vid News: Hollywood's record $4.2 billion in domestic theatrical grosses in last year was out-paced dramatically by home video sales, which at $7.46 billion last year was a 30 percent increase over 1986. According to "Home Viewer/Video" Week Trendicator Reports, the 15 top-selling video titles in 1987 were: "Top Gun" (Paramount), "Lady and the Tramp" (Disney), "Crocodile Dundee" (Paramount), "Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home" (MCA), "The Karate Kid, II" (RCA/Columbia Pictures Home Video), "Back to School" (HBO), "Aliens" (CBS/Fox Video), "Ruthless People" (Touchstone), "Lethal Weapon" (Warner Home Vid.), "Golden Child" (Paramount), "The Color Purple" (Warner), "The Color of Money" (Touchstone), "Outrageous Fortune" (Touchstone), and "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" (Paramount).

Burns, at 81, going strong in '18 Again'

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

George Burns is 92 years old and that puts him in with the geriatrics, although if there were 15 months in every year Burns would be about 73½. But no matter how he is, the actor/comedian's belly still smolders with the fires of show business.

In "18 Again" (2½ stars), the gallant old troupier and full-time booper-doooper appears in a role reversal film ala "Victor, Venice" and "Like Father, Like Son."

Rich bon vivant and businessman Burns celebrates his 81st birthday in the body of his 18-year-old college-bound grandson played by Charlie Schlatter. The switcheroo occurs following an automobile accident that leaves Burns unconscious and hospitalized with tubes in his nose.

Since record promotions are the other half of the film business, the sound track features Burns singing his charming hit "Once I Was 18 Again."

Once his spirit moves into Schlatter's body, the kid begins ordering martinis on the stem with an olive, smoking cigars, leering at young girls. Burns generally immerses himself in his grandson's world.

Burns learns that life has not been rosy for Schlatter who is sensitive, aspires to be an artist, is bullied by his contemporaries at school and can't make it with girls.

her spirit. Schlatter exudes panache, maturity and self-confidence. Life gets better fast.

Adopting the timing, gait, delivery and other Burns mannerisms, Schlatter becomes a track hero and squares things with locker room bullies.

And since grandpa is temporarily residing in his grandson's body, he begins to appreciate the boy's problems. He also comes to regret mistreating his own middle-aged son who has spent his life in the wrong job in the family business.

As written by Josh Goldstein and Jonathan Prince, college life is a series of dull cliches and even duller characters, especially Anthony Starke as an overbearing fraternity president.

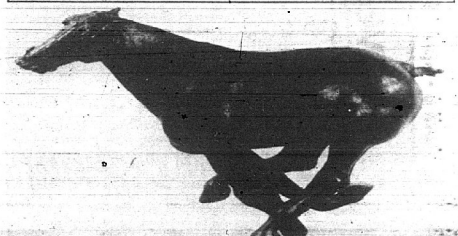

Jennifer Runyon is the campus "dream girl" and she does little but ogle the jocks.

Red Buttons is sort of funny as old-timer Burns' friend who savors memories of their salad days and is a little confused to see his pal walking around in a teen-ager's body.

Anita Morris is a brassy bawd as Burns' double-breasted "companion" who figures on being named in his will.

Burns, when he is on the screen, is fine, and the picture has some life. When the script has him tossing off remarks in a voice over on the soundtrack, the picture is flat, tepid and ultimately sophomoric.

Rated PG (language).

'RUNNING HORSE' by Peter Agostini is one of 44 works in the exhibit "Elders of the Tribe," on display through April 17 in the Ninth Floor Auditorium of downtown Famous-Barr, St. Louis, during regular store hours. For more information, call (314) 454-0116.

Professor's album reviewed

By Paul A. Harris
Staff affiliate

Elegant and subtle, "Athena, Volume 1" (Athena Publishing Co.) is an album of flute and harp music performed by St. Louisian Janet Scott, a research scholar and professor of music at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Maria Pinckney.

The music ranges from the very familiar to the very obscure. Most of it was composed sometime during the Romantic period of European classical music. The styles range from the courtly Chinese ornamental in Ernesto Kohler's "Orientalische Serenade," to the Celtic and Gallic dance music in Henri Koeler's Sonata in C. The oldest work on "Athena, Volume 1" is the "Siciliano" from J.S. Bach's Sonata in E-flat. As is true with all of the playing on the album, both Scott, the flutist, and harpist Pinckney render a performance that is seamless, and seems quite straightforward.

Much of the album is given over to music of the French Romantic. The most recognizable of these pieces is the "Entr'acte," from Georges Bizet's opera, "Carmen." There is a certain quality of detachment, a kind of passion held closely, but not completely, in reserve, about Scott's flute playing, which lends itself beautifully to the unequivocal sentimentality of this Bizet piece.

Altogether, Scott and Pinckney have come up with selections which lend themselves splendidly to a balance between playfulness and formality. The album, which was fully realized in St. Louis, is well-produced and engineered.

Army Reserve Pvt. Paul W. O'Beare, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale (Brenda) O'Beare, 2121 Lindell Blvd., has completed basic training at Fort Dix, near Trenton, N.J.

During the training, O'Beare received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, tactics, map reading, military courtesy and justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

His wife, Cary, is the daughter of Sandra Brown, 1412 21st St.

O'Beare is a 1987 graduate of Granite City High School.

Richard Miller

Marine Lance Cpl. Richard C. Miller, son of Richard C. Miller Sr., Granite City, has reported for duty with the 1st Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Miller joined the Marine Corps in April 1985.

Richard Schroeder

Richard M. Schroeder, son of Karl J. Schroeder and Lana June Sweetin, both of Granite City, enlisted in the Air Force under the Delayed Enlistment Program, Staff Sgt. Elliot Clark, Air Force recruiter at 415 E. Main St., Belleville, said.

Schroeder, a 1988 graduate of Granite City High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the Regular

Air Force on July 1.

After graduating from the Air Force's six-week basic training course near San Antonio, Texas, Schroeder will receive technical training in the electronics career field.

Schroeder will be earning credit toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools, Clark said.

John Sellers

Marine Sgt. John S. Sellers, son of Gerald L. Sellers, 2034 Beckwith St., Madison, recently departed on a six-month deployment aboard the amphibious transport dock USS Trenton with the Marine Light Attack Helicopter Squadron-167 from the Marine Corps Air Station—New River, Jacksonville, N.C.

During the routine deployment with the Joint Task Force Middle East, the squadron will serve as the Air Combat Element of the Contingency Marine Air Ground Task Force.

Sellers is a 1981 graduate of Granite City High School North. He joined the Marine Corps in June 1981.

Army Pvt. Norris A. Mills, son of Jackie Horton, 1241 Klein St., Venice, has completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

In the training, Mills received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Mills is a 1987 graduate of Forest Park Community College, St. Louis.

Lawrence Petras

Lawrence Petras, Granite City, has qualified for the GI Bill with his enlistment in the Army under provisions of the Delayed Entry Program (DEP).

Through DEP, Lawrence could have taken up to 12 months after enlisting before beginning active duty, according to Sgt. Norma Washington, a recruiter at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station, 3675 Nameoki Road.

Petras, a graduate of Granite City High School, has chosen to report for duty April 17 at Fort Jackson, S.C., where he will take basic training. He will get his advanced individual training at Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

A written guarantee from the Army has been given Petras, who will be trained in electronic warfare/signal intelligence non-communication interception, the job specialty of his choice.

Young persons who can meet the Army's physical and aptitude standards may call Washington at 676-5850 to learn more about Army opportunities.

She has information on the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund in which a recruit may accumulate as much as $25,200 for future college expenses.

Washington also has details about cash bonuses, skill training, educational aid, travel options and other benefits today's Army has to offer, she said.

Robert Koehne

Robert J. Koehne, whose wife,

Patricia, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. (Doreen P.) Gray, 2945 Park Lane, has been appointed a sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

The new non-commissioned officer completed training in management, leadership, human relations and NCO responsibilities before being awarded his new rank.

Koehne is a wideband communications equipment specialist in Italy with the 218th Communications Group.

He is the son of Gladys M. Koehne, Rockbridge, Ill., and a 1979 graduate of Greenfield High School, Greenfield, Ill.

Paul Perdue

Paul Perdue, Granite City, has enlisted in the Army's Delayed Entry Program in which a recruit can take up to 12 months after enlisting before beginning active duty.

According to Staff Sgt. Mark McMurray, U.S. Army Recruiting Station, 3675 Nameoki Road, Perdue has received the Army's written guarantee that he will receive training in the job specialty of his choice. He has selected to be trained in the fire control instrument repairing field.

A graduate of Granite City High School, Perdue will report for duty May 11, taking basic training at Fort Dix, Trenton, N.J. He will continue advanced individual training at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland.

Information about the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund through which a recruit may accumulate as much as $25,200 for future college expenses, plus skill training, cash bonuses, educational aid, travel options and other benefits, is available from McMurray. Young persons who can meet the Army's physical and aptitude standards are invited to call McMurray at 676-5990.

Smith leads Trojans to win in quad meet

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

MADISON — It was back to business as usual for the Trojan track team on Tuesday. And three other teams were given the business.

Madison operated with a skeleton crew during the Easter holidays. But they were back to full strength on Tuesday and won a quad meet at home over Wesclin, East St. Louis Assumption and Breese Central.

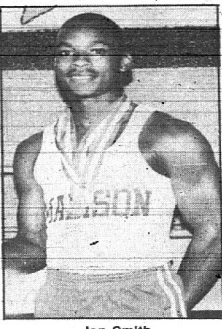

With Ian Smith, Jessie Leonard, Howard Murray, Fred Strauthers and James Whitehead in the lineup, the Trojans are tough to beat. Smith remained unbeaten on the year in individual events as he won the 100, 200 and 400 meter runs as the Trojans accumulated 89 points.

Wesclin was second with 77 points, Assumption had 65 points and Breese Central rounded out the field with 18 points.

"It makes a difference," Trojan coach Charles Steptoe said of having his full squad. "We had been going with nine or 10 guys last week, but we need at least 15 out there to have a full load."

Smith is a full load all by himself. He won the 100 meter dash in 11.35 seconds, edging Leonard by .07 seconds. Then the junior followed with an easy win in the 400, the event in which he won state last year. Smith's time was 51.85 seconds — "That's an excellent time on our track," Steptoe said. "It was four seconds ahead of teammate James Whitehead, who was second at 55.2. Smith finished out with a 200 in the 200 at 22.93, more than a second in front of his nearest competitor."

Smith was also the anchor man on the Trojans' winning 400 meter relay team. Jason Briggs, Quincy Williams, Leonard and Smith won the event with a time of 44.29. The Trojans also won the 800 meter relay with a time of 1:37.26. Briggs, Williams, Kenny Griggs and Leonard were on that team. The 1600 meter relay team of Whitehead, Marvin Gates, Williams and Briggs won with a time of 3:48.39.

Outside of Smith, the Trojans picked up four more individual firsts as Leonard, Murray and Strauthers all won their specialty events. Leonard took the long jump with a leap of 21-10. Jimmy Hall of Madison was third at 18-6. Murray won the high jump at 5-10. Strauthers won the shot put with a throw of 42-74 and the discus with a throw of 98-04. Kurt Gregory of the Trojans was fourth in the shot put at 33-64.

Quincy Williams was second in the triple jump at 38-10 and Griggs was third at 38-1. Other finishes for the Trojans included a fourth for Jose Dixon in the two-mile run, 13:22.46; a fourth for Scott Kostencki in the 110 high hurdles, 20:75; a third for Gates in the 800 meter run, 2:22; a fifth for Kostencki in the 800, 2:29; and a fifth for Kostencki in the 300 low hurdles, 50:27. The Trojans' Kostencki, Dixon, Gates and Whitehead also got a third in the two-mile relay with a time of 10:14.46.

BOB STEGEMEIER congratulates Tim Black after the junior pitcher got out of a jam in a game last week. The Warriors have had some good contributions from juniors early this season.

Warriors look to plug weaknesses

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — While things have so far gone better than expected for the baseball Warriors, Monday's 7-4 loss at Roxana could serve a purpose.

The game pointed out some team weaknesses that will have to be addressed as Granite City gets ready for its Southwestern Conference opener today at Varsity Field against Collinsville. The game will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Bob Stegemeier was concerned about the team's ability to score runs, but the Warriors exploded for 47 runs in the first five games. They scored four more on Monday, but had only two hits and scored that many thanks only to some shaky Roxana defense.

Speaking of shaky defense, the Warriors have committed 19 errors in six games and have 11 unearned runs. Four of those unearned runs came in the fifth inning on Monday. Shortstop Chad Lagnou has had a tough start to the season, but Stegemeier wants to stick with him.

"Chad's only a sophomore and we look at him as our shortstop of the future," he said. "Ernie did make an outstanding play in the hole against Wood River last week and has the ability. Chris Ryan has been

Tournament opens at McCluer

The Warriors open the Hazelwood Central Tournament against CBC on Saturday — and hope to finish the tournament quicker than they did a year ago.

In 1987, the tournament began on April 4 and didn't end until May 13 — at Varsity Field when Mike Krausz shut out Hazelwood Central 4-0 to win the tournament. Rain washed out the scheduled final day of the tournament on April 11 and it took a month to finish it.

The Warriors will play on Saturday at McCluer High School, just off Interstate 270 at Florissant Road. They will play CBC at 11 a.m. and will play again at 1 p.m. McCluer and Francis Howell North also play at 11 a.m. The winners of those two games will meet at 1 p.m. and the losers will also meet at 1 p.m. Hazelwood Central and Francis Howell North play at Hazelwood Central at 11 a.m., while Beaumont and Belleville also square off at the same time and place. Second-round games there will also be at 1 p.m.

Things get complicated on April 16 as the winners of this Saturday's 11 a.m. games gather at Hazelwood Central for the semifinals and finals. The first-round losers go to McCluer to battle for fifth through eighth place. This Saturday's 1 p.m. games really don't affect the outcome of the tournament, but determine the matchups for the championship and consolation semifinals.

All teams are guaranteed four games — two each Saturday.

Moody will start today against the Hawks. The offense had been sensational until Monday. Catcher Joe Wallace is hitting .529 (9 for 17).

IJAT brings tourney to Bowland June 3-5

The Illinois Junior Amateurs Tour will be coming to Bowland on June 3-5.

The tournament is one of the biggest young adult amateur bowlers. The finals will be televised by local cable Channel 10 at 3 p.m. on June 5.

"It's really a good thing for us and for Granite City," said Tom Gray, general manager of Bowland. "5000 bowlers will be here. Many of these amateur bowlers will be moving on to the pro ranks, so it's a good tournament."

They come from all over Illinois and from other states as well. Gray said as many as 1,000 bowlers could be here for the event. He said the IJAT holds several tournaments during the year, but most of them are held in the Chicago area. The most recent tournament, in Mundelein, will be telecast on Channel 10 next Monday at 7 p.m.

Preliminary rounds of the tournament will begin on Friday, June 3. The tournament will continue throughout the day on Saturday.

Venice guard Turner picks Northern Iowa

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

VENICE — Jesse Hall may be playing in the Big Ten, but at least Dave Turner will be playing for a former Big Ten coach.

Turner, a key member of the Red Devil 1986 state championship team and the leader of this year's regional champions, has announced he will play his college basketball at Northern Iowa University.

Turner will play for Eldon Miller, the former coach at Ohio State. Miller will be starting his third year at Northern Iowa, an NCAA Division I school located in Cedar Falls.

"They're looking for a point guard," Turner said of the Panthers. "They had a guy playing there last year who was back, but he told me personally that he's not really a point guard. So there's a chance for me to play right away."

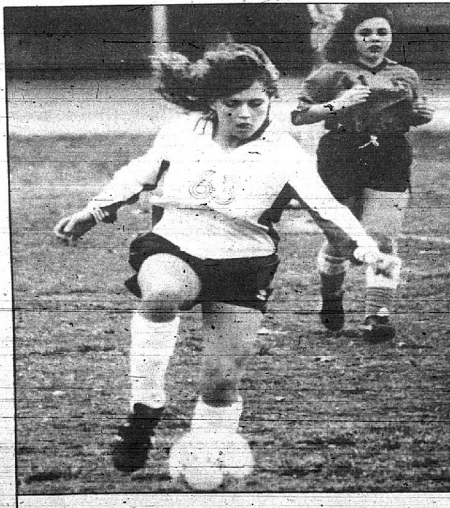

Turner, a starter since late in his sophomore year, finished this year with a 20.3 scoring average. He led the area in assists with 241 (6.6 per game) and made 37 three-pointers (2.2 per game) in leading Venice to a 20-6 record. The 6-2 guard had also been recruited by St. Louis University, Central Missouri State, Tennessee-Chattanooga, Buffalo University and Nebraska-Omaha as well as a couple of junior colleges.

He will sign a letter of intent on April 15. More on Turner will appear in a later edition.

NOTES: Durand Madison's Clarence Williams will play in an all-star game this Saturday in Pinckneyville. The game features the best players from the Metro East against the best players from Southern Illinois.

Others on the Metro East team include Venice native Steve Mason of Alton Marquette, Althoff's Terrell McKire, and Lawrence Bradford and Bryant Stevenson of the state champion East St. Louis Lincoln Tigers. A 6:30 game will feature former great players from Benton and Pinckneyville against oldtimers from Okaville and Nashville. The all-star game is at 8 p.m. Tickets are $2 for 12 and older and $1 for fans under 12. Dennis Schickel and Pinckneyville High School coach Dick Corn are the co-directors of the event.

Rainouts

JENNIFER HARPER and the Warrior soccer team were postponed Wednesday because of wet grounds. Granite City was to play Incarnate Word at home. The Warrior soccer team's game at Mascoutah also was postponed. Both games will be rescheduled at a later date.

Indy cars coming to GIR

The Valvoline American Indy Car Series will visit Gateway International Raceway (formerly St. Louis International Raceway) on June 18-19 for the first Illinois Grand Prix, the first Indy-style race in the St. Louis area.

Drivers, sponsors and local dignitaries will discuss the Grand Prix and related activities. Weather permitting, there will be testing of the cars at Gateway International that afternoon to provide interview and photo opportunities.

AIS is a brand-new international racing series using the same March, Lola, Penske and Eagle Indy Cars that compete in the CART-PPG Indy Car World Series, including the Indianapolis 500.

To combat the skyrocketing costs which have forced many teams to pull out of the traditional Indy Car circuit, AIS mandates the use of domestic stock block-based racing engines — such as Chevrolet, Ford and Pontiac — without turbocharging.

While these engines are considerably less expensive to build and maintain than the Cosworth engine used in the CART races, they are similar in power output. In fact, they are almost identical to engines that carry NASCAR stock cars to 200 mph.

Drivers who have joined AIS include Robby Unser, son of three-time (1969, 1975, 1981) Indianapolis 500 champ Bobby Unser, former Cam-Am Challenge Cup series champion Bill Tempero, and six-time Indianapolis 500 qualifier Jerry Kar. The series schedule includes several races in the United States, from California to New York, and two in Canada.

Belleville resident Walt Gluck, a motor sports reporter for KMOX Radio, is the executive director of AIS.

Tennis team blanked by Lancers

It was a lesson in humility for the Warrior tennis team on Tuesday.

Granite City faced one of the best teams in the area and were handed a 9-0 defeat by the Belleville East Lancers.

Jim Johannpeter, Derek Trijan, Rich Harmon and Steve Williams all lost in three sets in singles matches. Coach Alan Lobdell said all of those matches were very close and could have gone either way.

Matt Krekovich and Travis Whitmer were beaten in two sets.

In doubles competition, the teams of Krekovich and Johannpeter, Harmon and Trijan, and Chad Lane and Williams all lost to the Lancers in two sets.

Lobdell said the team, which had not played quite as well as he had hoped early in the year, Johannpeter and Trijan might be the Warriors' top players and Lobdell thinks the team could be very competitive come sectional time, but they will have to improve a lot from their early matches.

The Warriors will compete in the Civic Memorial Tournament at SIUE on Saturday. The tournament is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

(Staff reports filed by Cary Kubelka.)
